Mussolini Said To Await "Acceptable" Peace Suggestion

Italians Recognize New British-French Conversations Directed Toward Finding Basis For Ethiopia Settlement; Duce, However, Is Reported To Be Determined To Hold Broad Strip Of African Country

Associated Press

Rome, Nov. 21.—Italian authorities gave recognition to new Anglo-French negotiations for a peace in east Africa to-day, asserting they were watching to see whether an acceptable basis for discussion would be forthcoming from Paris.

A spokesman for informed quarters said, however, Italy was determined to win and hold a broad strip of Ethiopia, despite League of Nations efforts to force a halt to the conquest.

Il Duce, the spokesman said, awaited anything in the nature of an acceptable offer to resume direct dealings.

Mussolini's armies at East Africa, holding Ethiopia's northern Tigre province and a wide expanse of southern Ogaden province as basis for claims of territorial gain in any final peaceful settlement, were encountering difficulties.

Unseasonable rains slowed down the Fascist advance toward Harar from the south.

FEWER LIGHTS

But at home the Fascist government pressed forward with its defence measures to resist economic isolation by the League. The electric light adminstration for Rome announced some principal avenues would be darkened to-night in an economy move furthering the self-imposed restrictions to combat the League boycott and embargo on shipment of certain key products to Italy.

NEW EFFORTS AT PARIS

Paris, Nov. 21.—The efforts of Premier Laval to end the Italo-Ethiopian war took a new turn to-day with the coming of Maurice Peterson, head of the Ethiopian department of the British Foreign Office.

Officials said Peterson had been dispatched from London to study with French foreign office experts possible bases for negotiations to settle the East African conflict.

Chances of an "honorable solution" now seem less precarious, sources close to M. Laval said.

At London the general British view of the new negotiations was said to be that the experts might prepare a "yardstick" by which any further offers put forth by Premier Mussolini for peace in East Africa might be measured.

Informed British sources said Il Duce showed little intention of yielding his present position, however.

REPORTS ON BATTLES VARY

Italians Say North Ethiopian Force Defeated; Correspondents Say Ethiopians Mass

Associated Press

Asmara, Eritrea, Nov. 21.—The Italian field command reported to-day that Italy's northern army had defeated Ethiopian forces under the command of Ras Seyoum in a battle at Amba Salama, south of Makale.

For the last two weeks the Italian expedition has been trying for a decisive battle with the elusive Ras Seyoum, who continually, during the Italian advance across Tigre province, has stayed just outside of reach.

The engagement was fought at an altitude of 7,000 feet, almost in the shadow of the famous natural fortress of Amba Salama.

This rugged mountain position is situated south of Makale and commands the route to Amba Alaji.

SAY DEAD CARRIED AWAY

The Ethiopian losses in the engagement were not reported, since Ras Seyoum's men carried their dead as they fled.

TWO FLIERS OFF FOR SOUTH POLE

Ellsworth and Pilot Hollick-Kenyon Make Second Attempt to Wing Way Across Antarctica

Associated Press

New York, Nov. 2.—The New York Times and the North American Newspaper Alliance reported to-day that Lincoln Ellsworth had hopped off on his second attempt in twenty-four hours to fly across the antarctic continent.

Ellsworth and his pilot, Herbert Hollick-Kenyon, had been forced to give up the first flight and return to the base ship, the Wyatt Earp, because of an oil leak in their motor, after 2 hours and 11 minutes in the air.

The explorer and his pilot, a well-known aviator of Winnipeg, again had favorable weather for the takeoff with virtually no wind and a few light clouds.

Ellsworth and Hollick-Kenyon chose for their flight a route from the Weddell Sea to the Ross Sea. This would take them over the South Pole.

Ellsworth said they expected to make the flight of 2,140 miles, 1,300 over territory unseen before by man, in about fourteen hours' flying time.

San Francisco Store Owner and Salvager Arrested Following Soda Deaths

Associated Press

San Francisco, Nov. 21.—Two men were under arrest in San Francisco's poisoned baking soda case to-day as authorities widened their investigation to determine the source of the poison.

Three deaths and thirteen cases of severe illness have been linked definitely to the soda sold in bulk at "bargain" prices in a department store, Dr. J. C. Geiger, city health officer, said.

Twenty other recent deaths, preceded by symptoms that might have been caused by the poisoned soda, were ordered investigated.

Joseph Rosenthal, executive of the department store which sold 800 pounds of the soda, and Nick Manno, proprietor of the Wholesale Salvaging and Distribution Company, which supplied it, surrendered on warrants charging violation of a city ordinance prohibiting distribution of contaminated goods. They were released on $250 bail each.

DEALER TAKEN ILL

Rosenthal said he was so confident of the purity of the soda he mixed "several scoops" in a glass of water and drank it in the presence of customers who complained. He said he became ill, and a doctor told him a

MASSEY TALKS WITH BALDWIN

Canadian Press

London, Nov. 21.—Hon. Vincent Massey, newly-appointed High Commissioner for Canada in Great Britain, made his first formal call on Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin at No. 10 Downing Street this afternoon.

At Signing of Canada-U.S. Trade Treaty

Premier King, centre, had just signed the Canadian-United States trade pact and was handing it to Secretary of State Cordell Hull to sign for the republic when the above picture was taken at Washington. President Roosevelt, right, and members of his cabinet looked on as the agreement was completed just twenty-three days after the King Government took office at Ottawa.

Cost Figures On Gasoline Brought Out At Inquiry

Chairman of Tariff Board Accepts Imperial Oil Suggestion of Part Public and Part Closed Sessions

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Nov. 21.—Complete information concerning its operations was promised the Tariff Board to-day by the Imperial Oil Company, subject to varying degrees of publicity.

The board encountered a difficulty with confidential information at the start of the gasoline tariff hearing a few days ago and chairman George H. Sedwick said he thought the Imperial Oil Company's assurance was satisfactory.

"So far as the board is concerned," he said, "we are pleased and we think we shall be able to make progress."

C. H. O'Halloran, counsel for British Columbia, said he would reserve his comments on the proposed method of dealing with confidential information, but was not favorably disposed towards it.

AT PUBLIC SESSION

Counsel for the company agreed to lay its cards on the table as follows:

"At a public session or sessions of the board, without limitation of the use of any information as to which confidential privilege should not be claimed, to permit full cross-examination on the following subjects:

"(a) Laid-down costs of crude oil at each of our client's refineries, including all details of items entering into such cost;

J. E. MILLER PASSES AWAY

Former Inland Revenue Inspector and Keen Sportsman Dies in Vancouver

After a long illness, Joseph Elwood Miller, former district inspector for the Department of National Revenue here and a resident of this city for over thirty years, passed away yesterday in Vancouver, where he had been undergoing treatment for the last few weeks. The remains will be brought to Victoria for services on Saturday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock.

Mr. Miller, who at the time of his retirement in 1930 was the oldest man in the Dominion Civil Service in years of service, entered the service in 1883 in Kingston, Ontario. After five years in that town, he served a year in Montreal, and went to Vancouver in 1889 to accept the post of collector for the mainland division of Inland Revenue.

CAME HERE IN 1907

In 1907 he was promoted to the inspectorship of this branch and came to Victoria to take over his duties. Fourteen years later, following the merger of the departments of customs and excise, Mr. Miller took over the inspectorship of both departments under the name of National Revenue.

His district included Vancouver

Police Action Despite Protest

Hon. J. G. Gardiner Tells Regina Riot Inquiry Commission How He Sought to Prevent Trouble, But Bennett Government Gave Orders to R.C.M.P.

Canadian Press

Regina, Nov. 21.—Main witness at the Regina riot inquiry commission to-day was Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Federal Minister of Agriculture and former Premier of Saskatchewan.

Mr. Gardiner revealed correspondence and conversations with federal officials last June. He was on the stand for an hour and a half.

While the royal commission continued into its third day of inquiry five relief camp strikers who had been unable to raise bail were released on their own recognizances from jail.

ORDERS FROM OTTAWA

The Saskatchewan Government's dispute with the federal government last June over control of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police force in dealing with the "On-to-Ottawa" trek was outlined by Mr. Gardiner. He said Col. S. T. Wood, assistant commissioner of the R.C.M.P. in Regina, was ordered by Sir James MacBrien, commissioner of the R.C.M.P. at Ottawa, to stop the trek in Regina over protest from the provincial government.

Later as protests flew by telegraph and telephone back and forth between Regina and Ottawa, Mr. Gardiner, as head of the Saskatchewan government, refused requests of the federal officials and railway companies that the trekkers be considered and dealt with as trespassers on railway property, protesting that the railways had brought the relief camp strikers from British Columbia to Regina and

CHILDREN TO SEE COWS

Philadelphia, Nov. 21. — Interstate Dairy Council, which says 142,000 Philadelphia children have never seen a cow, is taking steps to show them some. The council will sponsor erection of a barn at the city zoo and ask dairymen to send cows for exhibition purposes.

Restoration Of Cuts Forecast

Civil Servants May Get Part of Salary Deductions Back Next Year

With revenues collected by the provincial treasury showing steady improvement during the first eight months of the current fiscal year, restoration in part at least of the depression salary cuts given civil servants is forecast in the next budget.

The government has not gone fully into the matter yet but will consider a partial increase, it was learned.

During the drastic economy period of the depression the reductions were made, ranging from 2 per cent on the low salaries just above minimum level and ranging up to 20 per cent on the higher grades.

Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, confirmed to-day that revenue had been increasing and would compare up well with estimates. The government was not ready to make a statement yet on salaries, he indicated.

As a matter of promoting confidence in the increased business activity which is reflected by government revenues, salary restorations would be a wise move at the present time when it appears the treasury can stand it, according to comment in provincial circles.

The full deduction from the civil service salary list runs to about $385,000. A 50 per cent restoration would cost under $200,000, it was pointed out.

THOUSANDS IN CAIRO RIOT

Street Cars and Stores Damaged; Fifty Arrests Made Before Quiet Restored

Associated Press

Cairo, Nov. 21.—Calm returned to Cairo to-night after "day of mourning" disturbances which carried with them injuries to seven native policemen, the arrest of fifty rioters and widespread damage.

Street car windows and street lamps were smashed and some shops damaged by several thousand hooligans whose ranks were augmented by a sprinkling of students.

The demonstrators hurled paving stones freely for about three hours before quiet was restored. In the course of the day police fired over the heads of several mobs and used stout clubs frequently.

Civil Leaders Testing Strength With Army In Ministry At Tokio

As Military Pressure To Break North China Away From Nanking Regime Is Eased, Japanese Political Experts Report Crisis Will Come To Head In Debate Between Japanese Government Members To-morrow; Foreign Minister Hirota Opposes Plans Of Army Leaders.

Associated Press

Tokio, Nov. 21.—Japanese political experts close to the government asserted to-day that the north China situation has developed into an explosive issue within the Tokio government.

Dispatches from China showed the scheme for the declaration of autonomy by the five provinces in north China under the protection of the Japanese army had miscarried.

However, although Japanese civilian leaders were temporarily restraining the action of the Japanese militarists in China, a strong element of the army was insisting the north China autonomy plan be carried through.

According to the political experts, the issue will be debated at a cabinet meeting to-morrow.

Experts said the life of the cabinet might possibly depend on the outcome.

SUPPORTS AMBASSADOR

Hirota is expected to support the compromise suggested by Ambassador Akira Ariyoshi, following his interview yesterday with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, by which Nanking would be permitted to retain a considerable degree of sovereignity in north China.

The newspaper Asahi asserted Ambassador Ariyoshi, whom the militarists long have accused of softness in dealing with the Chinese, submitted his compromise proposal to Tokio with the comment, "This is likely to be my last service to the Emperor," indicating he would resign if the army leaders prevailed.

An earlier Associated Press dispatch from Glen Babb, its correspondent at Tokio, read:

Tokio, Nov. 21.—The scheme for secession of north China, under the protection of the Japanese army, went awry to-day.

An official source said the chief reason for the setback in plans to bestow a new regime on 95,000,000 people of five north China provinces was an order by the army high command in Tokio to its subordinates on the continent, stating officers conniving in Chinese separatist movements were exceeding their authority.

SPEAKS FOR NANKING IN JAPAN EXCHANGES

The authorities in north China were ordered by Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, above, to suspend discussions with Japanese military leaders for "autonomy" for north China. The Nanking government, of which Chiang is generalissimo, is speaking for China.

TWO CONTESTS NOW ASSURED

Mayor Sole Civic Candidate Without Opponent as Civic Election Approaches

Mayor David Leeming was the sole aspirant for office at the forthcoming civic elections without an opponent to-day.

In both council and school board lists more candidates have announced their intention of running than there are vacancies.

In the council field, eight aspirants, including the five aldermen whose terms expire this year, are after seats.

The entry of Major P. J. Riddell into the school board lists yesterday evening assured a fight between at least five men for the four posts on that body.

CANDIDATES TO DATE

The various candidates already in the list follow:

For council — Alderman P. R. Brown, Alderman John Worthington, Alderman R. A. C. Dewar, Alderman W. C. Hawkins, Alderman Alec Peden, Ed. Williams, Frank LeRoy and Mrs. Alice McGregor.

For school board—Trustee Kenneth Ferguson, Trustee Charles Bishop, Major P. J. Riddell, Walter Staneland and Alex. Marshall.

F. E. Winslow and James Forman, prominent members of the Real Estate Board of Victoria, who were quoted extensively in recent reports on the police commission issue and who were challenged by Alderman Andrew McGavin to stand for council seats to determine to what etxent they represented public opinion, declined to accept the challenge.

Questioned to-day, Mr. Winslow stated he would be delighted to enter the field but business affiliations made it impossible for him to take that course.

Mr. Forman declared he had no wish f r a post on the council, stating the pressure of private business and his age were not favorable to the civic forum. He said he was beyond the age for such vanities.

New Zealand Duties On Canadian Cars Extensively Revised

Trade Pact Between Sister Dominions Renewed Till July 31, 1936; Canada Expects to Ship Many Unassembled Cars

Ottawa, Nov. 21.—Extensive revision of New Zealand duties on Canadian motor vehicles and parts is included in the terms of the renewal until July 31, 1936, of the trade pact between the two Dominions, which was due to expire November 24.

The announcement was made yesterday evening by Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

The new rates will become effective next May 1 and in the meantime further trade negotiations will be carried on between the two countries.

COMPARATIVE RATES

The changes in the New Zealand tariff were made at the request of that country in order to encourage the importation into New Zealand of unassembled cars so that the assembling might be done there, said Mr. Euler.

NO OIL FOR ITALY

Associated Press

Washington, Nov. 21.—Secretary of the Interior Ickes called on the United States oil industry to-day to halt, voluntarily, shipments to Italy.

Explaining at a press conference he had no "authority at all" in the matter, Mr. Ickes said "I don't think they ought to" sell oil oil to Italy.

NEW MINE WAGE INQUIRY IN BRITAIN

Canadian Press from Havas

London, Nov. 21.—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin was informed officially to-day by the Miners' Federation of the overwhelming vote for a strike if demands for wage increases are not met.

The Prime Minister was asked to join in an examination of the situation with a view to arriving at a settlement which will make recourse to strike unnecessary.

Mr. Baldwin was expected to reply by the end of the week.

DYNAMITE BANK TO SAVE TOWN

Prompt Action at Greenwood, B.C., Prevents Fire From Sweeping Entire Business Section; Losses $60,000

Greenwood, B.C., Nov. 21.—An entire block of business houses on the north side of Cooper Street was razed by fire early today with an estimated loss of $60,000. Officials authorized dynamiting of the Canadian Bank of Commerce three-story frame building and this emergency action was credited with saving the remainder of the business section from destruction.

The fire was reported to have started in the Imperial Garage and it spread rapidly down the block, eating the frame structures like matchwood.

APPEAL BRINGS HELP

An appeal for help had been sent to Grand Forks, twenty-eight miles distant, and in less than forty minutes the fire apparatus from that city arrived to assist in fighting the blaze.

Business places destroyed were the Imperial Garage, in which eleven cars were burned; Ritz Cafe, Bank of Commerce building, Pincott and Pincott law offices, the insurance office of Charles King, Greenwood Theatre, Gulley's Undertaking Parlor and a livery stable.

N. Schroeder, acting manager of the bank branch, opened new offices this forenoon and stated that while the vault of the burned building would not be opened for several days he would secure cash from the Grand Forks branch and would be open for business as usual.

milk of magnesia tablet he had taken "probably saved my life."

He said he immediately ordered the rest of the soda removed from sale.

Police, seeking the source of the poison, said that at the wholesale establishment the soda had been dumped from broken retail packages into barrels for bulk sale.

They were advised by Dr. C. D. Leake, department of health chemist, that the poison was so mixed with the soda that it could not have just come from the sides of dirty barrels.

"It might have come into the soda," Dr. Leake said, "by being dumped in by mistake, as it has much the same appearance."

Dr. Geiger previously expressed the possibility the soda was poisoned deliberately.

Manno told police inspectors he had no idea how the poison became mixed with the soda.

"I have been salvaging soda from broken packages for years and have never had any trouble before," he said.

New Zealand Duties On Canadian Cars Extensively Revised

rates—75 per cent or more British content, 10 per cent; 65 to 75 per cent British content, 12½ per cent; under 65 per cent British content, 50 per cent.

Unassembled cars and trucks, present rates—75 per cent Canadian content, 5 per cent; 50 to 75 per cent Canadian content, 20 per cent. (In the case of passenger cars there was an additional "body duty" of 11¼ per cent which was reduced to 6¼ per cent on any value over £200. This body duty has been dropped altogether in the new rate.).

Assembled cars and trucks, new rates—75 per cent or more British content, 25 per cent; under 75 per cent British content, 60 per cent.

Assembled trucks, old rates—75 per cent or more Canadian content, 10 per cent; 50 to 75 per cent Canadian content, 20 per cent; under 50 per cent Canadian content, 50 per cent.

Assembled passenger cars, old rates—75 per cent or more Canadian content, 15 per cent; 50 to 75 per cent Canadian content, 20 per cent, plus a "body duty" of 12¼ per cent; under 50 per cent Canadian content, 60 per cent.

In addition to the above duties there is the usual surtax of 22½ per cent on the amount of duty, which New Zealand imposes on all goods.

EMPIRE MATERIALS

One important change is that in the amendments to the agreement British content is substituted for Canadian content. This enables Canadian manufacturers to use materials from any part of the empire to qualify for lower duties instead of being confined exclusively to Canadian materials.

The rates on separate parts shipped into New Zealand will be the same as those for assembled cars and trucks.

It is understood New Zealand felt the 5 per cent rate on unassembled cars of more than 75 per cent Canadian content was too low, and, although the general trend of the changes is to lower the duty on high British content for unassembled cars, the 5 per cent rate was increased to 10.

Otherwise the changes are to encourage a higher percentage of British content, reducing the rates ranging between 65 and 75 per cent British content and extending the highest rate to cover all under 65 per cent. The rates on assembled cars are up all along.

Changes in the duties on motor vehicles and parts are the only alterations made in the agreement with the sister Dominion. Originally effective May 24, 1932, the pact has been successfully extended every six months.

Mr. Euler said: "The Canadian Government made certain counter-proposals which were not accepted at this time. As time was too short for extensive negotiations, it was thought advisable to renew the agreement, and more especially in view of the fact that the New Zealand Government invited the Canadian Government to enter into further negotiations before the amended duties on motor cars come into effect on May 1 next."

TRADE TOTALS

Canadian exports to New Zealand have been increasing steadily from $3,608,500 in the year 1932 to 1933 to $7,344,785 in the year 1934 to 1935. In the last eight months alone exports to New Zealand reached a total of 4,325,593, an increase of $800,000 from the corresponding six months of the previous year. The chief item of export was automobiles and parts exceeding $1,000,000.

Imports from New Zealand have also been increasing steadily. In the year 1932 to 1933, the amount was $969,704. This increased in the year 1934 to 1935 to $2,584,678.

NEW FORD PLANT

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 21.—Construction of a $750,000 assembly plant at Wellington, N.Z., will be started immediately by the Ford Motor Company of Canada, President Wallace R. Campbell announced to-day. He said the new plant, announcement of which follows the new trade treaty between Canada and New Zealand, will be ready for operation by July 1, 1936.

"We are enthusiastic about the agreement. The revisions of the treaty will help us maintain business in New Zealand which we were in danger of losing to England and the United States. We also hope to increase our market for cars in New Zealand. All this will mean stability of employment in our plant in Windsor," said Mr. Campbell.

A new subsidiary company of Ford of Canada will be formed in the same manner as subsidiary companies already formed in Australia, South Africa, India and Maya.

Crisis in Japan Cabinet On China Events

This order, which at least temporarily hampered schemes for extension of Japanese military protection into regions south of the Great Wall, was one of the rare instances in which civilian leaders of the Tokio Government made more cautious views prevail over military ambitions.

Associated Press

London, Nov. 21. — The halt in plans for the establishment of an autonomous North China was said by an authoritative source to-day to have been due to the pressure brought by Great Britain.

It was indicated the British used their influence to stiffen the stand of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, Chinese National leader, in opposition to North China's split from the Nanking government.

At the same time, it was said, the British played a strong diplomatic hand in Tokio to check the handling of the situation by Major-General Jenji Doihara, commander of the Japanese army on the continent.

In well-informed quarters it was stated the British had assured the Chinese they had no desire to interfere with normal, pacific Japanese economic penetration of the territory involved.

By A. T. STEELE
Associated Press Correspondent

Shanghai, Nov. 21.—The Japanese military put it up to the central Chinese government to-day to undertake its own reforms in North China to replace the autonomy movement

Maj.-Gen. Rensuke Isogai, Japanese military attache in Shanghai, told the Associated Press there was a strong possibility the Nanking government would take independent action to improve conditions in the northern provinces, and that the self-rule agitation would subside.

PRESSURE CEASES

His statement followed closely an assertion by a high Nanking executive that Chinese government officials were authoritatively informed Japanese pressure on North China had been released suddenly.

This authority attributed the about-face directly to insistence by Foreign Minister Koki Hirota at Tokio that the autonomy agitation would prejudice Japan's demands for naval parity with the United States and Britain in the London December conference.

Generalissimo Chinag Kai-shek, the executive said, had ordered northern authorities to suspend negotiations with Japanese militarists, to permit Nanking to handle the situation.

H. H. Bronston, controller of the British American Oil Company, was cross-examined by Mr. O'Halloran. He said his company bought its crude oil from its subsidiary in the United States, the British American Oil Producing Company, which in turn bought on the open market. The company paid $1 a barrel for crude oil at the wells in east Texas. The total cost of the crude oil laid down at the Montreal refinery was $1.58 a barrel and at the Toronto refinery was $1.86 a barrel. Laid-down price of crude at the Coutts, Alta., refinery was $1.79, and at the Moose Jaw, Sask., refinery $2.51. He refused to disclose the actual cost of the gasoline as it left the refinery before an open sitting of the board.

Mr. Bronston said British American Oil had not taken advantage of the tariff on gasoline to raise prices.

Presentation of a brief on behalf of the Imperial Oil Company was fixed for the afternoon session.

The Italians reported they were pursuing the retreating Ethiopians with full strength.

The Italian command threw four battalions of infantry and one cavalry squadron into the chase, hoping to outflank and encircle the Ethiopian forces before their commander could rally them to a new stand.

Associated Press

With the Italian Army at Makale, Ethiopia, Nov. 21.—Undaunted by the heavy bombardment of the Italian air forces last Monday at Buia, south of Makale, Ethiopian forces are reassembling there to-day with the apparent intention of attacking.

Air scouts reported the Ethiopians have returned to the region and taken up posts alongside the bodies of their comrades.

By Jacques Barre, for the Havas News Agency

With the Italian Armies at Makale, Nov. 21.—Possibility that Ethiopian armies would take advantage of the lull in Italian operations on the northern front to attempt a repetition of their 1896 triumph at Aduwa led Italian commanders to prepare for a battle here to-day.

Two big Ethiopian armies were reported moving closer to this occupied stronghold, awaking uneasy memories of the slaughter of an Italian column trapped by Emperor Menelik's warriors when Gen. Baratiere yielded to a sense of security.

It was feared Ras Seyoum's attacking force of 300 men would attempt to cut the Italian communication lines north of here while a second Ethiopian column of 20,000 men would smash at the southern gates of Makale.

By JAMES A. MILLS
Associated Press Writer

Addis Ababa, Nov. 21.—Emperor Haile Selassie, who returned unexpectedly to this capital to-day, is believed by sources close to him to have gone to Jijiga to issue definite battle orders.

The orders are understood to have been given to Ras Nasibu, commanding tribal forces on the southern front.

Haile Selassie reappeared in the capital a short time after Italian planes had flown over the territory he had just left. He disclosed he had made two flying visits to the actual fighting front.

An official communique said two Fascist airplanes flew over the strategic cities of Harar and Diredawa just after the emperor had departed from that sector for Addis Ababa.

"The fact the planes did not drop bombs indicates they were reconnoitering or pursuing the Ethiopian plane," the communique said.

THIRTY KILLED

The announcement also said "information from the commander of troops in the region of Makale states the recent intensive bombardment of their positions by ten Italian planes caused thirty deaths and slightly wounded fifty, instead of the 2,000 killed as mentioned in a press communique from Asmara."

The emperor made a two-day inspection tour of the southern front during which, the government announced two Italian tanks were captured and their twelve occupants beheaded immediately by the Ethiopians.

"I have kept my word by going to the front among my soldiers," the Emperor told the Associated Press correspondent, who was the only foreigner at the airoprt.

"I was most gratified at seeing for myself the loyal devotion being shown by my troops for their fatherland, and their magnificent bravery. I believe that with help of God our righteous cause will prevail."

Early in the day virtually all shops opened, but as disturbances spread merchants lowered shutters in the face of Nationalists protesting British influence in Egypt.

There were no serious casualties then feared the situation might grow worse at any hour.

Windows were smashed in numerous shops in Cairo, and one policeman was belabored heavily while obstructing rioters intent on wrecking a street car.

IN BACKGROUND

British police, who had become involved in one conflict with anti-British demonstrators last week, resulting in the death by gunfire of four students, remained in the background to-day.

IN PALESTINE

Jerusalem, Nov. 21 (Associated Press).—Two British police constables were injured and two Arabs wounded to-day in a demonstration at Haifa in which 2,000 Arabs took part.

The Arab demonstration was provoked by the funeral of three alleged members of a gang which killed a constable last week.

An alleged terrorist, arrested in yesterday's skirmish, was said by police to have revealed the presence of a secret armed band roaming Palestine and inciting against British rule.

TELEGRAM QUOTED

A telegram from Hon. Hugh Guthrie, then federal Minister of Justice, to Mr. Gardiner on June 12, stated the federal case for taking charge of the R.C.M.P. This telegram, put into the inquiry evidence by G. R. Yule, K.C., counsel for the commission, said the railway companies had complained of trespass of the strikers, the railway operated under Dominion acts and therefore the federal government was required to deal with the issue.

Mr. Gardiner was still on the stand at the noon recess. Only other witness to-day was Constable Donald F. Taylor of the R.C.M.P., who, as a special agent joined the trekkers in Regina on June 19 and lived with them until June 28 as No. 141, in Group 5 of Division 5 of the trek organization.

BEFORE REQUEST

In giving his evidence Mr. Gardiner stated his opinion that control of the R.C.M.P. in Regina in connection with the strikers and subsequent riot on July 1, which brought death to Detective Charles Millar of the Regina police force, was taken over by R.C.M.P. headquarters in Ottawa before there was a request for co-operation from the provincial authorities or before complaints had been made by the railway companies of trespass.

While the trekkers were still in Alberta on June 10, Mr. Gardiner issued instructions, he said, to labor officials to treat the strikers as transients. This meant they would get beds and two meals a day while in the province. The city of Regina was informed of this.

CAMP PLAN

On June 11 Col. Wood told him of instructions just in from Ottawa from the R.C.M.P. commissioner that the trek was to be stopped in Regina, the men taken from trains and put in a camp prepared by the Defence Department. Mr. Gardiner's view was there was "not very strong grounds" for regarding the men as trespassers, and no authority was justified in bringing the men to Regina and stopping them.

"I objected to instructions being given the R.C.M.P. without consulting us," the province paid annually $275,000 for police service and R.C.M.P. were "supposed to take instructions from us." These objections were sent to Ottawa, with protest against the militia camp idea.

CLASH FORESEEN

"I said such procedure would end only in a clash of these forces in Regina and that we could see no reason why Regina should have imported into it a riot.

Later orders to Col. Wood contained no reference to the militia-camp idea.

On June 12 a telegram from Prime Minister Bennett said the railways were forwarding a complaint, and asked co-operation of the provincial authorities in dealing with the trek. W. A. Mather that day brought a letter to Mr. Gardiner setting out the men had become a "menace." Mr. Gardiner wired Mr. Bennett that "our understanding is the men had been provided transportation on by the railway companies and could not be regarded as trespassers." The request to deal with the trekkers as trespassers was refused.

E. B. Andros, former aspirant for mayoral honors, who has been mentioned as a possible opponent for Mayor D. Leeming, declared he had no interest in the elections and would be leaving the city shortly.

Robert Smith, a former alderman, when questioned, stated he thought he could do more good outside the council than on it and would not be in the ring.

DENIES RUMORS

W. T. Straith, retiring school trustee and president of the Chamber of Commerce, reiterated his statement he would not be in the civic field, despite widespread reports to the effect he might run for mayor.

Harold Diggon, well-known business figure here and prominent Kiwanis Club member, also denied reports he might enter the lists.

W. H. Binns, former school board official, now in retirement, stated he had no aspiration towards a seat on the board this year.

The Best GRAY HAIR REMEDY IS MADE AT HOME

You can now make at home a better gray hair remedy than you can buy, by following this simple recipe: To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Orlex Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it yourself at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained.

Orlex imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair, makes it soft and glossy and takes years off your looks. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off. Do not be handicapped by gray hair now when it is so economical and easy to get rid of it in your own home.

Boise, Idaho, Nov. 21.—The rank and file of bankers in the United States "are a whining, whimpering, courageless lot, and the government of the United States will be forced by the demands of the people to remain in the banking business for a long time," says Ben Diefendorf, Idaho commissioner of finance.

The outspoken official, who spent many years as a bank executive in the Middle West, bluntly stated his views on his return from the annual convention of the American Bankers' Association in New Orleans.

"After attending that meeting of 3,000 bankers and traveling several thousand miles through the east and Middle West, I've concluded the executives of banks are sitting around like a bunch of babies," he said.

SOVIET ARMY TAKES TO SKY

Associated Press

Moscow, Nov. 21. — The quick mobility of the Soviet army's new offensive weapon—its parachute and airplane infantry—was shown to-day in figures made public by War Commissar Klementi Voroshiloff.

Three thousand members of this aerial army landed with parachutes, coming down behind the lines of a theoretical enemy.

They were equipped with automatic rifles and light machine guns.

Transport planes landing men at the rate of 1,000 every sixteen minutes brought to the ground 8,200 more soldiers, Voroshiloff's account said.

GOING AFTER BUSINESS

CANADA QUITE RIGHTLY CONTINUES to go after her external business. Already Prime Minister King has put his signature on the trade agreement with the United States. Now there is to be a new deal in business between Canada and the southern Dominion of New Zealand.

Five years ago, this country was doing business with New Zealand worth nearly $36,000,000. It is now less than one-third that amount. In 1930, the government which was defeated last month promised the Canadian people that it would revive the dairy industry by imposing a tax of eight cents a pound on butter coming into this country from New Zealand. At that time the producers were getting about thirty-seven to forty-two cents a pound wholesale for their product. Mr. Bennett told the people of Canada when he toured the Dominion that the dairy industry of the country was dying a slow death—that nothing but a tariff transfusion could save it.

Mr. Bennett took office in the summer of 1930 and immediately implemented his pre-election promise to the dairy industry by boosting the tariff on butter from one to eight cents a pound. At that time there was not a pound of Antipodean butter coming into Canada. The reason was not hard to find. The world price governed the price which the Canadian consumer had to pay.

During the early part of Mr. Bennett's regime, the price the dairymen of Canada were collecting for their butter from the wholesalers was about thirty-five or forty cents a pound. They are getting now something like thirty cents a pound—and their industry, apparently, is still living.

The policy of the government which has been retired has received the Canadian public's rejection. The Bennett trade policy—not alone with New Zealand, but with the rest of the world—has reacted against this country to the tune of more than a billion dollars.

A GREAT SAILOR

THE DEATH OF EARL JELLICOE PROBably will revive the controversy over the Battle of Jutland of May 31, 1916, which raged furiously in naval circles a few years ago. The admiral's critics charged him with excessive caution when as chief of the Grand Fleet he refrained from closing with the German High Seas Fleet in the late afternoon, that his tactics showed that he lacked the "Nelson touch," and that his excessive prudence enabled the German ships to escape to their base in the darkness. His defenders pointed out that conditions were not favorable to a general engagement, that darkness was falling rapidly, that while the British fleet was more powerful than that of the foe, the disparity was not great enough to permit recklessness because severe losses might prevent the maintenance of the naval blockade which was gradually sapping Germany's military strength. They also contended that Jellicoe was carrying out the policy of the British Admiralty.

British naval policy in the war was not limited to the winning of isolated battles. It had a much wider application—the winning of the war. It was much more important that the Grand Fleet should be able to maintain the blockade of Germany than it was to achieve a spectacular triumph in battle on the Nelson scale. Germany could afford to lose battles and ships, for submarines and mines made her North Sea and Baltic coasts impregnable to naval attack. Britain could not afford to weaken her capital naval power to a point which would make the naval blockade ineffective If, for example, France or any of the other allied nations in the war at that time possessed sufficient naval forces to preserve the strangle-hold on Germany early taken by the British navy, Jellicoe no doubt would have closed with the High Seas ships in spite of the fading light; he probably would have sunk a considerable number of the hostile vessels, but he would have suffered heavy capital losses.

Since the responsibility for the maintenance of the blockade as the chief objective of the war at sea devolved upon Great Britain, it is easy to appreciate the soundness of the policy which demanded that no undue risks be taken when they might involve a Pyrrhic victory; in the winning of a battle but the losing of the war. The war was one of whole nations, not merely of armies and navies; it was a prolonged contest of attrition, and could not have been won by the allies if they had not been able to shut off supplies to the Central Powers by a tenacious naval blockade. The Nelson and Blake traditions, if continued at Jutland by Jellicoe, would not have been much consolation if their preservation had enabled Germany to impose her will upon the world.

Not long afterwards Admiral Jellicoe was transferred from the Grand Fleet to the Board of Admiralty, and his post as head of the Grand Fleet was given to Admiral Beatty. Beatty had been in command of the battle cruiser squadron which had been in contact with the German fleet off Jutland, before the Grand Fleet appeared on the scene, and gave an example of the "Nelson touch" when he attacked forces much more powerful than his own. The outcome was costly, three British battle cruisers and a number of smaller ships being sunk, while the German losses, although heavier than Berlin admitted them to be, were lighter than those of the British.

In the light of all the circumstances it is fortunate, perhaps, that the Admiralty did not substitute Beatty for Jellicoe prior to the Battle of Jutland, for a corresponding proportion of loss in the Grand Fleet, even though it won a sensational victory, would have been a disaster. In fact, the margin of British naval capital superiority might have been wiped out. Wise leaders always are prudent when something more important is involved than the winning of an incidental battle, especially when the loser can afford to lose.

Earl Jellicoe was a sagacious, experienced and competent leader in the war, and later, as Governor-General of New Zealand and in other offices, proved himself to be a popular and capable leader in peace.

THEORY AND PRACTICE

THE SOCIAL CREDIT MEMBERS OF the Alberta Legislature yesterday held a caucus in which, according to Premier Aberhart, it was decided to refrain from pressing for any immediate payment of the dividends promised under the policy on which they were elected. Alberta could not have paid that dividend in any case, although there is little doubt that some of the members were startled to discover the fact. Later, an equally startling disillusionment will overtake the electorate as a whole.

It is one thing for political aspirants without legislative or administrative experience to advocate Utopian measures, and something entirely different to carry them out when in office. There is a wide gap between radical theories propounded in an atmosphere of halcyon irresponsibility and the stern realities which confront the propounders when they get into office. In one case, what the advocates say so breezily involves only themselves, but in the other, what they do involves the whole system of government and the entire structure of public welfare in its countless ramifications.

There are many people who think they know how to conduct other people's businesses better than those who have spent their lives in the building and developing of them. This includes many who have made a sorry mess of their own affairs. There is no human activity more complicated and difficult than that of public administration, none which calls for more intensive study, intimate knowledge and actual experience. Mr. Aberhart probably was a good school teacher, but he knew no more about the conduct of Alberta's governmental affairs than any member of the late cabinet without experience knew about the practical work of school teaching.

As Premier of Alberta Mr. Aberhart must be guided by the officials of the province who know what can and what can not be done, not what can and can not be said on the public platform. Without them he is a mere babe in the woods. This is not to imply any reflection upon his good faith or devotion to the public welfare. It simply means that his education in practical political economy is just beginning, and that in a few years he will realize the difference between the limitations of public office and the illimitable latitude of private life; between the unfixed moorings of theory and the very definitely fixed anchorage of practice.

MERIT RECOGNIZED

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS HAS PAID a tribute to Dr. Riddell, and through him to Canada, by appointing him to the chairmanship of the International Labor Conference. His views always have been sound and his sterling character generally recognized. As Canada's chief advisory officer at Geneva for many years he has established an enviable reputation.

Dr. Riddell at one time was Deputy-Minister of Labor in Ontario, and has long been highly regarded for his humanitarian zeal. Of his work in the League one commentator remarked that "on more than one occasion he found the way out of a baffling international problem."

Dr. Riddell's experience and judgment will be invaluable, both to the League and to the important organization of which he now will assume the duties of chairman, especially in these difficult times.

THE PUBLIC APPROVES

WE ARE TOLD BY A MAINLAND CONtemporary that there is a "roar of protests heard above paens of praise" for the trade agreement recently negotiated by Canada and the United States. This is incorrect. We doubt if 10 per cent of Canada's population object to the agreement. How could they in view of their very recent demonstration in favor of more trade and against high tariffs at the polls?

Naturally, those who have been making very large profits at the expense of the many are annoyed because they will be compelled to take a little lower margin of dividend.

There are, however, on this North American Continent about 140,000,000 people. A large proportion of them have to struggle pretty hard to make a living and any sound business arrangement which will stimulate commerce between Canada and the United States is bound to help them to do it.

Social Credit in Alberta is beginning to look like a mirage. It is all very well for Premier Aberhart to tell the people of his province that they can bank on $25 a month; but their natural inquiry is this: "Yes, Mr. Aberhart, but where is it coming from?"

Just Folks

GOLF SEASON'S END

He runs his season's record o'er
And finds his game was bad.
His cards recall his daily score
But not the fun he had.
The figures tell his faulty skill,
Black gains and losses red,
But figures columns only fill
And leave so much unsaid.

The lucky shot which saved the day
Is merely one of three.
The stolid records do not say
How that par came to be.
The golfer, as the season ends,
Finds little progress made,
Nor can he now name all the friends
With whom at times he played.

He keeps no records to recall
The fellowship he's had.
He'd say, in summing up it all,
His game was mostly bad.
Yet if golf really held no more
Than par to make us gay
And all-important were the score,
Few men would care to play.

Let me remember at life's close
Not failures, with regret,
Nor little victories over foes,
But friends that I have met.
And when life's game shall end for me
Despite the scores I've made,
Let me look back and grateful be
For all the days I've played.

Loose Ends

Mr. Scott insults his way into the millenium — and does it rather well—a gentleman insults this column in a nasty way—and Mrs. Noggins would prefer cash.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

INSULT

MR. HOWARD SCOTT, high priest of Technocracy, may not be right in his economics, but he has mastered the art of telling the public. His approach, as witnessed at first hand here this week, is breezy and penetrating. Instead of buttering the public up, Mr. Scott almost insults it.

This is a method which I have often used feebly, in my humble way, and it is highly effective. A satisfied citizen, well fed on three meals a day and with some money in the bank, usually won't listen to reason. He will listen to the peculiar prejudices of his own group, sect, party or class. He will listen to his wife, because he has to. But he won't listen to reason. If you can insult him badly enough, though, he may get mad and tell you what he thinks of you. Then, before he realizes what is happening, behold, he has found out what you are talking about. He has got the point.

Mr. Scott's method is to insult society at large, to tell it that it doesn't know anything and probably hasn't got the sense to do anything and most likely is going to the dogs. He has nothing to sell (so he says) nothing to offer. Nothing? Only the millenium.

He mentions it casually, as an afterthought. Sure, if you're interested in a detail like that, why, of course, says Mr. Scott, we can have an age wherein men work twenty years, 165 days a year, and are given in return a wealth of everything produced by the machine. It is all very simple, a mere matter of engineering.

In that technocratic world there will be no problem of economics. The engineers will look after that. All you will have to do is work a few hours a day and amuse yourself the rest of the time.

Mr. Scott carries it off so breezily, selling his Utopia exactly like the man at the door sells brushes. You don't realize until he has moved away to the next door or the next town that Mr. Scott, under a fancy new name with nice peppermint coating and cellophane wrapping, has been preaching pure Communism with an American twist to it.

Communism will never be adopted in America. But America quite conceivably can be stampeded for Townsendism, Share-the-Wealthism, Social Credit or Technocracy. What the high priests of all these things never tell you is that they can't be worked with the private ownership of the machine and the public doesn't want that.

MORE INSULT

IN THIS BUSINESS you become hardened and cynical. After the first cold, ice-water shock of seeing your name in the newspapers, and your honor dissected in letters to the editor, you grow another layer of epidermis, a kind of tough outer shell which nothing can penetrate. At least I had thought so, but I find I am wrong. I find, when the test comes, that I am vulnerable and human like other men.

You see, I had been called everything and suspected of everything and blamed for nearly everything, but up to this week I had grinned and borne it and thought I was a hard guy; but when Mr. P. J. Bourne wrote to the editor the other night and said casually that "Mr. Hutchison is a politician and as such, when in error will say nothing," I felt that he was going too far, even with a newspaper man. Any court of law, with a jury of ordinary electors, would hold that to be criminally libelous. If it weren't that I am too busy at the moment I should take it into court simply to establish the principle involved and save other men from the same sort of injury.

Besides, Mr. Bourne is quite wrong when he says I may be counted upon to remain silent when in error. Anybody will tell you that I am nearly always in error when I am saying most. Ask the Dickens Club or the City Council or anybody in Calgary.

WASTE OF MONEY

I SEEN IN THE PAPER," said Mrs. Noggins as we drove to town, accompanied by a dead goose, "that the helection—the one we 'ad the other day, you know, to get Bennett out—it cost a lot of money. They reckon it cost $2 fer every vote that was cast. Himagine—$2!

"Well, I tell you wot I figger. I figger there wasn't any vote was worth it. None hout our ways was, hanyways. You take old Pudbury—'im votin' fer Stevens. Wot was the use of that vote? Wasted, that's all, just wasted and yet 'ere the taxpayers 'ad to pay $2 fer it. And you take Whiffleton. Why, 'e voted and it cost the country $2 and 'e ain't earned $2 in twenty year. I tell you two years of 'is time weren't worth no $2 to the country, and they paid that fer five minutes of it. Besides, 'e voted Liberal and the C.C.F. fella got in. The gover'mint 'ad better 'ave saved that $2 and put it on the roads.

"Why, it even cost 'em $2 fer my old man's vote! Bless you, 'e ain't done nothin' worth $2 since 'e married me. Of course, 'e voted the wrong ways anyways, votin' Conservative, and the C.C.F. fella helected. You could lay to it 'e'd waste his vote. If the gover'mint 'ad any sense they'd of give me the $2 and I'd of bought 'im a bottle of somethin' fer Christmas. That'd give him a lot more pleasure than votin' and the consekens would of bin the same.

"When it comes to that, hanybody 'd druther 'ave the $2 than go to the polls. I could 'ave got meself a new 'at at a bargain sale with $2. And wot did I get? Bless you, all I got was an hopposition member in parlymint. I sure would druther 'ave a new 'at. I figger anybody would. I figger if you was to ask the people of Canada, 'Which would you druther 'ave, a helection or $2?' they'd all jump up and say, 'Bennett, give us the cash and call off the helection.'

"A new gover'mint is fine and all like that, but right now I need a new 'at more. I got this 'un just after the war and the roses on it is beginnin' to fade a little. It makes me kinder sore to think that both me old man's vote and mine was wasted — 'im votin' Conservative and me Liberal and a C.C.F. fella helected—and with the $4 it cost the country, I could of 'ad a 'at with feathers on it fer Christmas. If they'd called off the helection and paid cash, I could of stood Bennett fer four more years, but this 'at—well, the roses is fadin' pretty bad now. Four more years and they'll drop orf."

MERCY DEATHS ARE REPORTED

Doctors in Pennsylvania and Connecticut Tell of Cases

Associated Press

Reading, Pa., Nov. 21.—Dr. Monroe Clouser of Friedensburg yesterday said he had hastened the deaths of at least six patients during his twenty-five years of practice, and contended many doctors have done the same thing but are afraid to admit it.

In each instance, the fifty-two-year-old physician said, he had hastened death "at the request of relatives of the patient, who asked me to relieve the patient's suffering."

"In each case," he explained, "I consulted a fellow member of the medical profession. My colleague agreed with me the patient was incurable after a thorough diagnosis. I then administered an overdose of pain-relieving drug."

Every one of the cases, he said, was an incurable patient suffering from diabetic gangrene or cancer.

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 21.—A man whom he remembers only as Letourneau was named yesterday by Dr. A. M. Warriner as the victim of the "mercy killing" which the physician on Tuesday said he committed forty-eight years ago.

Dr. Warriner, seventy-nine-year-old dean of Bridgeport physicians, reiterated he gave Letourneau an overdose of an opiate because the latter had been "hopelessly wounded" in a hunting accident.

In North Brookfield, Mass., Miss Elmira Letourneau recalled that her father, Adolphus Letourneau, died after an accident similar to one described by Dr. Warriner, but insisted that death was due to loss of blood.

Dr. Warren Tyler, named by Miss Letourneau as the doctor who treated her father, was identified by Dr. Warriner as the veteran army physician who advised him to administer the overdose of opiate.

In Mexico business letters frequently are signed with the letters "S.S.S.Q.B.S.M." which stand for the Mexican equivalent of "Your faithful servant, who kisses your hand."

CORRECTION

To the Editor:—In my letter which appeared in your columns of Saturday, November 16, there was an error which I hope you will permit me to correct.

Referring to Mr. Sanders's listing of total costs of a pair of shoes, the letter read: "But he did not state specifically," that certain costs were incurred. This should have read: "But he did state specifically," etc. Thanking you for your indulgence in allowing this correction.

SPALINGER'S VACCINE

To the Editor:—The ministry of agriculture for Northern Ireland has decided to give consideration to the claims of the Swiss experimenter, Spalinger, whose vaccine, it is claimed, may do wonderful things in stamping out tuberculosis in cattle.

Spalinger's name became prominent in England and other countries some twenty years ago, but at that time he claimed by his experiments to be able to prevent tuberculosis in man. Money was lavished upon him for the purpose. Every doubting Thomas stood the chance of being ridiculed though even the medical profession, which is usually too credulous, hesitated to accept Spalinger's statements. For one thing, he absolutely refused to make known his formula before 1932. It then appeared that the serum cure for tuberculosis in man had become a vaccine to stamp it out in cattle.

So, while we are being advised that Spalinger's vaccine can be produced in limitless quantities that may be within the reach of the poorest farmer, we do, on examination, discover that calves experimented upon (often with cruelty) were only artificially infected. This is a quite different matter from natural tuberculosis.

The British Medical Journal (October 5, 1935), accepts statements from Northern Ireland with prudence and suggests that for the time being "the lay public will be well advised to retain an open mind" on the value of Spalinger's vaccine for immunization of cattle against tuberculosis.

Let us not forget the history of Koch, who produced a tuberculin for the cure of the disease in humans, with tragic result. The affair was known as "The Sedan of Science," but as it seemed a pity to waste such a large stock of tuberculin as was then on hand, it was used instead upon cattle. An uncritical public seems still ready and willing to give consideration to such commercialized products as sera and vaccines.

POLICE COMMISSION

To the Editor:—Referring to your editorial on this subject in last evening's issue, I do not think that you for a moment intended to be unfair or unjust, and that you will frankly welcome a correction: The police commission was not abolished by order-in-council. It was done by the Legislature; see the Statutes of 1932, Chapter 39, section 18. As you quite understand, a government has no power to alter the terms of a statute by order-in-council, and the police commission is a statutory body. Even under the provisions of that marvelous legislative enactment, the "Special Powers Act," the Legislature was careful in withholding any such power from a government. If I remember rightly, the commission was abolished at the request of the city authorities on representations made of an undesirable state of affairs existing, and the leaders of the opposition, Messrs. Pattullo and Manson, were consulted on the occasion.

Vancouver, through Mayor Taylor, desired to be included in the change, but the Attorney-General, Mr. Pooley, considered that had better be done by amendment to the city charter, which was effected the following year.

The form of police commission now in force is not new. It is taken from Ontario and has been in force there since Upper Canada days. The evils of the elective form of police commission, imported from the United States, are well known as having placed the police administration virtually in the control of the criminal element and the underworld. There has not, so far as I am informed, been any demand for reversion to the elective system in Vancouver.

O. C. BASS.

Editor's Note—Mr. Bass's correction is justified in the sense that the change in police administration in Victoria was made by virtue of an act of the Legislature instead of by order-in-council, on the application of the civic authorites. Both Mr. Pattullo, then leader of the opposition, and Mr. Manson, were reported as objecting on the ground that the legislation made the change compulsory in Victoria, whereas it was optional, under application, in the other municipalities.

A PROTEST

To the Editor:—We would appreciate the publication of the following letter in your valuable paper:

The actions of the Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Limited in importing outside labor, while a large number of local miners are on relief, is causing quite a feeling of resentment among the miners, business men and taxpayers of Nanaimo. In the past month over thirty outsiders have been put to work in Protection No. 1, while local unemployed miners are constantly applying for work day after day and being turned down.

The working abilities of the local men are not questioned, many being laid off due to the slackness of the summer months. It is ironical when we compare that state of affairs with the appealing advertisements that decorate the bill-boards throughout the province, "Make the Island Miner Happy." "Buy Comox, Nanaimo, Wellington Coals."

Can we feel happy with lay-offs staring us in the face and knowing that we might be compelled to smash up the homes we have built by thrift and hard work, as we have many others in the past, while the company bring in outsiders, giving them work almost as soon as they arrive?

We are aware that the policy of the C.C. (D.) Company Limited is calculated to cultivate mistrust and antagonism among the miners and to make it as difficult as possible for the workers to achieve the right of collective bargaining. The C.C. (D.) Company Limited bitterly oppose organization; will not recognize a committee of the men, and are constantly spying on their employees. Workers have been fired merely because they were suspected of being in favor of trade unionism. The company have been taking full advantage of our insecurity by using discrimination and intimidation to speed us up until our off hours had to be spent almost completely in recuperating strength for another day; but we are now organizing, secretly, as yet, and the day is near when they will have to regard us as men and not mules.

PROGRESSIVE MINERS OF NANAIMO.

CHARLES DICKENS

To the Editor:—Your correspondent, Mr. Leonard, falls into strange aberrant depths considering the apparently erudite mind engaged in formulating his symphonious conclusions on this subject and as given to us in his letter published in your issue of last Saturday. To quote:

"Few, possibly, will deny that Charles Dickens was a facile and careful writer, just as few would allow, in the light of to-day, that he is still a great writer. He might be described as very good indeed, for the age in which he lived. That would not alter the fact that he is practically unreadable to-day for any civilized man. The reason for this is that the age in which he lived is largely dead and however much we might desire to keep his memory green, as a good writer of his own time, yet we shall be mistaken, I think, if we try to keep his memory sacrosanct."

If we cannot go back, understandingly, to the Victorian era, how can we refer back to the Elizabethan, and what becomes of English history? "David Copperfield" is only about seventy-five years old and your correspondent says that it is practically unreadable to-day for any civilized man. Our Bible is about 2,500 years old. On his line of exposition, therefore, nobody whatever could be expected to make either head nor tail of that and, supposedly, we must be keeping our Bibles about in order to insert one in the foundation stones of our more important buildings: so to inform the coming race of supermen, as they emerge through the evolutionary spiral, what the beliefs of the Christian era were. I feel that a Canadian of either sex, born on the Arctic Circle, would understand "David Copperfield" standing on their heads, kicking up their heels in high glee to the zenith. Particularly would they should a number of reproductions of original illustrations by Geo. Cruickshank, Leach, Phiz or Boz be in their copy.

Dickens is not dead; not even in this world. He lives on in the hearts of millions of us. Why, I meet every day lots of "Davids" and "Betsy Trotwoods" and all the other characters, right here in Victoria. They are all over the world. They always were and ever will be—because they are true. The only things missing are the donkeys. Donkeys! Donkeys! (Unless we admit our two-legged species).

It is terrible to lose one's nexus. These old things, if they are real and true to life, relatively speaking, never die. The pantomime will never die. However diffuse and glorified its presentation may now be in Drury Lane and Leicester Square, the old drama of Columbine and Harlequin, Clown and Pantaloon cannot be left out. The public demand it. They love to see the sausages stolen and somebody scorched with the hot poker. Children love it. Why, nothing on the green earth would so delight our own, supposed to be, sophisticated, Bright Young Things as a Punch and Judy show—if it could be well done.

Of course, it is understood the pantomime belongs to Christmas exclusively, like mince pie. No true-born Englishman or woman would ever dream of eating it at any other than the Christmas season.

In conclusion, I suggest that a few passes to the Dickens Fellowship would be in order for those who appear to have lost their nexus. They would there learn again that, as Nelson:

"Those bright spirits will not fade with years
Whose graves are watered by a nation's tears."

COFFEE BAGS TO BRING A SAVING

W. H. Malkin Co. to Pack Its Product in Inexpensive Dated Bags

A new coffee making a big saving for the housewife is announced to-day by H. E. DeWolfe, manager of the W. H. Malkin Co. Ltd., in Victoria.

The saving is made by packing the same Malkin's Best Coffee in a date-stamped paper bag, thus doing away with expensive containers.

Freshness is guaranteed by stamping the date plainly on the front of the package which indicates the date up to which the coffee is guaranteed fresh.

Any coffee left in the stores after that date is picked up by a special service truck and replaced by fresh stocks thus insuring absolutely fresh coffee for the consumer. The saving of at least one-fifth on coffee purchases is made possible by the inexpensive double-lined paper bag.

Civilization has tamed the staunch Maori tribes of New Zealand, but it has done its utmost to retain the art of these bold aborigines, remarkable in its fine carvings, its weaving and tattoo work. One form of preservation is the new series of stamps issued by New Zealand recently.

The stamp shown here illustrates a Maori girl typical of the beautiful womanhood of that race. The girl is wearing a "pare," or headband of plaited flax, and holding in place a feather of the rare "huia." The feather is black, with a white tip, and is worn by women of high birth only.

On the girl's breast rests the characteristic Maori amulet known as a "tiki," emblem of fertility. Maori tradition has it that the original Tiki was the father of mankind, while another legend makes Tiki the being that presides over women's handcraft, as well as childbirth. And so the tiki is worn by women only.

The BLUE DOOR

by Rachel Mack

© 1935 NEA Service, Inc.

She threw a short ermine cape around her (that was to remind John that she was still Elaine Chalmers, the glamorous) and went back to him. They had dinner together under Suzie's popping eyes. After dinner Elaine played for him on the big piano that used to be Florence's, and sang all the songs that he asked for from the Princeton Triangle plays. Now and then he got up and walked to the window or the door and looked out. Now and then he paced the floor. Elaine would talk to him then about the girl they were waiting for.

Once she said teasingly, "And you don't even know her name!"

"But I do now!" he declared, like an eager boy. It's Ruth Woodson. The telephone call confirmed that."

He told her then about the night they were arrested for speeding en route to the Mountain Cabin, and how she had given that name to the traffic cop. He said, "When I was thinking it over to-day, the hunch came to me that that was her own name. Ruth Woodson."

"Ruth Woodson," echoed Elaine thoughtfully. Mentally she compared it with Elaine Chalmers and found it wanting. "Shall we play double solitaire or shoot billiards? Your pacing around this way makes me nervous."

* * *

They had time to do both. They even turned on the radio and danced. Once when the music stopped, Elaine forgot to move away and remained within the circle of John McNeill's dropped arm, the fingers of her right hand still clinging to the fingers of his left. She looked up at him intimately. He had only to bend his head to kiss her . . . and suddenly she knew that he had no desire to kiss her. His thoughts were miles away.

When a car came into the grounds and stopped before the porch they both experienced nervousness and panic.

John opened the door. Two men entered with a white-faced, defiant girl between them. She, too, was frightened, and it was her fright that made John forget his own.

"Ruth!" he said to her quickly. "You're not being arrested. It was just a way to get you back here. The only way we knew—"

She said, looking at Elaine and then back at him again, "Why did you want me to come back?"

"Don't you know?" he asked, looking deep into her troubled eyes. "Don't you know?"

"No," answered Ruth, tiredly and wistfully. She could not keep her love for him out of her face, out of her voice.

Elaine moved closer, so that she stood beside the dishevelled girl in the cheap tweed suit that had been shrunken by rain. She thought, "He must see us together. He must look at us standing here. With his eyes. With his senses. With his mind. He must see us together—"

He did. His arms reached for Ruth hungrily. He kissed her mouth, her chin, her forehead. Her lips again. Then he held her close to him while he looked at Elaine over her rumpled head. "Isn't she the loveliest thing God ever made?" he asked, huskily.

Elaine laughed. It was a natural, amiable laugh, acknowledging her own defeat. The two detectives laughed. Not impudently but indulgently, conceding every man's right to his own taste. They said, "Have you any beer on ice, Mr. McNeill?"

Susie came and took them away, her eyes bulging at the scene in the front hall. Elaine remained.

John said to the rumpled girl in his arms, "Will you marry me in the morning, Ruth Woodson?"

She said she would.

Elaine was practical. She said to John, "We'll have a bangup wedding as soon as you can get the license. But she must go home with me now and get some sleep. She's exhausted—can't you see it? Brides must be fresh and beautiful—"

She took Ruth's hand and led her across the lawn, through the althea hedge, into the old Hunter house. John, listening, heard the blue door close behind them. It had a friendly, vibrant sound. As if the old house was coming to life again.

* * *

When the laws of the Naval Academy permitted it, Elaine Chalmers married Dennis Davis in a simple, forthright manner. Her world was surprised. In response to pressing questions from reporters she had this statement to make:

"Once I saw a young man in love with a girl. I mean in love. Since then I've known I could never marry any man unless he looked at me as that young man looked at his girl."

"How did he look at her?" asked the curious reporters, pencils poised.

She called across the room, "Dennis, what time is it?"

Dennis Davis said, "You know I don't carry a watch, Elaine." But he looked at her as he said it, and the reporters saw. All of them tried to describe that look afterward, but gave it up.

THE END.

Mrs. H. C. Drummond Left Big Estate

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Nov. 21.—The will of Mrs. Helen Frances Mitcheson Drummond, who died here April last, was filed for probate yesterday, disposing of a net estate of $199,981.

Her husband, Herbert Charles Drummond, was left an annuity of $20,000, together with furniture and real estate valued at $35,000.

The will contained a number of legacies and bequests to relatives and friends, including $5,000 to Constance and Arthur Drummond of Duncan, B.C.

ST. MATTHIAS A.Y.P.A.

The regular meeting of St. Matthias A.Y.P.A. was held in the church hall recently. After the religious study by Mr. R. Hallwright, the Rev. Capt. F. H. Buck, the guest speaker, was introduced by the president, Miss Betty Patterson. Mr. Buck took for his topic his war experiences as chaplain to the Canadian Corps.

Following Mr. Buck's address, a business meeting was held. It was decided that there would be a bridge party in the church hall, at 8 o'clock, Thursday, November 28, under the direction of Miss Gwen Burton. The members will go carol singing in order to raise sufficient funds to supply one needy family with provisions this Christmas. In order to stimulate group competition, Mr. Hallwright offered to present a prize to the group giving the best programmes throughout the coming year. Following the election of K. Rowe as reporter, the meeting adjourned.

Obypa Enjoyed Pendray Films

On Tuesday evening the members and friends of the Obypa had the pleasure of viewing the interesting moving pictures taken recently by Mr. Herbert J. Pendray while on his trip to the Near East. The president of the Obypa introduced Mr. Pendray, who told something of his travels in Indo-China, Siam, and the islands of Java and Bali, before showing films of the ruined temples of Angkor and Bangkok.

There were five interesting reels, several showing the temples with their wonderful carving and bas-relief, others some scenes taken of the picturesque and primitive natives of the island of Bali. The last reel showed shots from Java, including views of a snake farm and numerous rice and tea fields.

During the evening Miss Grace Genn played two piano solos, a recitation was given by Miss Norma Lovick, Miss Louise Noble sang, accompanied by Miss Dora Curtis. On behalf of those present, Eric Garman moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Pendray and the assisting artists.

The regular meeting next week has been postponed as the members will be the guests of the St. John's A.Y.P.A. on Monday evening. The young people are asked to meet at the Oak Bay Church at 7.30 o'clock.

The Truth About Diet

This is the first of a series of articles in which Dr. Fishbein will give a thorough explanation of foods and their effects on the human body.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

"Tell me what you eat and I will tell you what you are!" says an old proverb.

Of course, that doesn't mean that those who live largely on nuts and grains resemble squirrels or donkeys. Or that persons who subsist largely on steak resemble the lion or the tiger in their voraciousness. The foods we eat enter into the composition of our tissues after digestion and absorption. A deficiency of certain essential elements in the diet reveals itself in extraordinary malformations in body structure and in unusual diseases.

Fishbein

When the Queen of France heard that the people were crying for bread, she said, "Let them eat cake." That was bad advice.

A slice of bread costs less than a piece of cake of the same size and offers more in the way of nutritional elements but bread differs from cake in lacking appetite appeal.

* * *

The queen's advice to her people was a good deal like most of the advice peddled nowadays on the subject of food. Everyone who has suffered from indigestion considers himself an authority on diet.

Most people take diet for granted. They think back to the time of their childhood. They remember Sunday dinner with soup, chicken, vegetables, fruits, nuts, milk, pie and cream on top of pie. And Sunday night supper! Everything in the old icebox was brought forth to delight the eye and the palate.

But times have changed.

* * *

Nowadays girls learn to cook with can openers. This is not to deprecate the value of canned goods, because I will show later what their usefulness in nutrition really is.

Foods have become sophisticated. Thirty-five years ago the average American had a choice of three cereals for breakfast; to-day there are several hundred cereals from which he may choose.

Once we ate only with the idea of putting energy into our bodies. Nowadays we eat for health and for growth.

The purpose of this series of articles is to enlighten the intelligent reader so that he may pick his foods with at least the same care that he uses in picking a motor car.

TO-DAY'S HEALTH QUESTION

Q.—If I swallow fruit or raisin seeds, am I likely to get appendicitis?

A.—Rarely is a seed or other foreign substance found in an appendix. The idea that fruit or raisin seeds may cause appendicitis is not very well established. The chief cause for appendicitis is obstruction which results from infection and swelling.

VICTORIA CITY TEMPLE Y.P.S.

The weekly meeting of the Victoria City Temple Y.P.S. was held Tuesday in the social hall with a good attendance of members. The evening was devoted to music and various games in charge of Miss Ruth Hanson. Refreshments were served by Miss Dora Gascoine and her committee. Next week's meeting is in charge of the devotional convener, and all members and their friends are welcome.

Catholic Y.P.S.—The first of the winter series of study evenings will be opened to-night by Bishop McDonald, at the Catholic Young People's Club. The meeting will commence at 8 o'clock sharp. The subject under discussion will be "Mexico and the Catholic Church." Victor Montaldi is convener for the evening.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

SCOLDING WON'T AID IN TRAINING CHILD IN RIGHT HABITS

I feel myself a failure when a mother admits to me that all the methods she has tried are those I most heartily condemn. Obviously if there is to be any successful learning the mother must practice the teaching methods which speed up rather than retard that learning.

The following letter is illustrative of the kind of educational methods which are almost certainly doomed to fail.

NO MIRACLES

A mother who signs herself "A Failure" writes: "I know you do not claim to perform miracles, yet that is just what I expect. My boy is two and one-half years old, yet he is not trained for either bowel or bladder movements. His bowels move about four times a day, but not regularly.

"He has three meals, and a light lunch before bedtime. I try to balance his meals. He sleeps nine or ten hours at night and for an hour in daytime. He seems normal and bright in every way and can help me, or pick up his toys, but he can't or won't understand what is expected of him as regards toilet training.

"I have tried scolding, bribing, shaming and in despair a light slap or two, and explain to him as best I can what it is all about. But it is futile. I have a son four months of age, two brothers-in-law and a mother-in-law who is blind, so you see I haven't too much time. I wish you could give me just one more suggestion."

The unhappy part of this recital is the implication that I would ever have given any of these suggestions, all of which are taboo as related to good training. They confuse the child and make it impossible for there to be an unemotional consideration of what is desired.

BE PATIENT

Successful training consists of patient, conscientious and unemotional repetition of the situation you want the child to learn. In this case to have his toilet duties performed in the right place. You may have for constant reference the leaflets "Training in Good Toilet Habits" and "Retraining for Cleanly Habits," for a self-addressed and three-cent stamped envelope sent to Myrtle Meyer Eldred of the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper.

"TROUBLED WITH CONSTIPATION* FOR PAST 25 YEARS"

Then ALL-BRAN Brought Welcome Relief

Read this voluntary letter from Mr. Lecour: "I have been troubled with constipation* for the past 25 years. I tried practically every cathartic without results.

"Recently, I determined to give Kellogg's ALL-BRAN a fair trial. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has not only helped me, but I believe it is an actual relief for chronic constipation.*—Mr. Henry E. Lecour. Address upon request.

*Due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to aid elimination. It also furnishes vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is gentle—and safe for normal individuals. Often more effective than "bulk" in fruits and vegetables, as it does not break down within the body.

Isn't this natural food pleasanter than patent medicines? Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved, see your doctor.

NOVEL TABLES AT SILVER TEA

Portia Club Shows Much Originality at High School Function

About 100 guests attended the annual silver tea arranged by the Portia Club in the cafeteria of the Victoria High School yesterday afternoon, the affair being invested with all the color and success traditionally associated with this annual undertaking by the girls in aid of the club funds.

PRIZEWINNING TABLES

In the decorated table contest, which is always a feature of the tea, the young hostesses displayed much originality and creative ability. The prize for the most original table was given to that amusingly described as "Blue Monday." Every detail was carried out to perfection, from the clothes-peg place card holders, dressed as washerwoman dolls, the blocks of "soap" cake and the Lux boxes and wicker baskets containing the sandwiches, to the line of washing hung across the grass plot which centred the table.

Betty Cottet, Georgina Dowdell, Marion Wingate and Phyllis Dodsworth were the hostesses, all dressed as washerwomen in large white aprons and blue bandannas.

A very effective orange blossom table, sponsored by four first year students, secured the prize for the most artistic table. The girls in charge were Shirley McKenzie, Doreen Lille, Elois Bishop, Peggy Reid.

Of special note were two tables which were first prizewinners of 1934 and 1933. Their theme was "Robinson Crusoe's Island" and "The Skating Scene" from "Pickwick Papers." These tables were sponsored by President Peggy Mulliner and Vice-president Bunty Maynard.

Other tables were "League of Nations," "An Autumn Scene," the Ethiopian table, a Christmas table and a "Miss Canada" table.

Mme. Sanderson - Mongin, Mrs. Claud Campbell and Earl Clarke acted as judges, Mme. Sanderson-Mongin announcing the winning tables, presenting the prizes to the girls with a word of congratulation on their enterprise and initiative.

MUSICAL NUMBERS

From 3.30 till 4 o'clock, members of the High School orchestra, under the direction of Alfred Prescott, rendered a delightful programme, including flute solos of Nahden Young and piano solos by Rae Millar, while Winnie (Bunnie) Applegate sang three solos, accompanied at the piano by Victoria Cross, all the numbers being warmly applauded.

Guests were welcomed by Miss J. Roberts and Miss Nora Hollroyd, Portia Club honorary presidents, and Miss Peggy Mulliner, president. Miss Adele Macleod poured tea at the guest table, among the specially-invited guests being Principal and Mrs. Harry Smith, Miss J. Cann, Miss Humphrey, Miss Margaret Clay, Mrs. D. Walls, Mrs. Harry Dee, Mrs. W. A. Jameson, Dr. Olga Jardine, Miss Scott, Mrs. Lloyd Morgan, Miss Isla Tuck, Miss A. Eaton, Miss Mary Hamilton, Miss Dorothea Hay, Miss Nora Hollroyd, Miss E. Cameron, Miss M. Swanson, Miss L. Maxwell, Miss Madeline Clay, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Campbell, H. Hickman, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Clarke, Mme. Sanderson-Mongin, Miss Archibald, Miss Thomas, Miss Heritage and W. E. Cook.

Other guests were Mrs. F. E. Winslow, Mrs. P. B. Gregory, Mrs. A. E. Kent, Mrs. Green, Mrs. E. Heddle, Mrs. C. F. Earl, Mrs. H. G. Wallis, Mrs. F. E. Mulliner, Mrs. H. D. Dee, Mrs. W. Wingate, Mrs. Earl Dowdall and Mrs. Willis.

MARRIED AT FIRST UNITED

Pretty Ceremony Last Night For Miss Martha Crombie and Mr. W. J. C. Tait

Autumn flowers and foliage formed a colorful background for the pretty ceremony in the First United Church yesterday evening at 8.30 o'clock which joined in marriage Martha Johnston, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Crombie, 21 Olympia Avenue, to Mr. Wilfred John Campbell Tait of Vancouver, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Tait of Van Anda, B.C.

Rev. W. G. Wilson, D.D., performed the ceremony. The artistic floral setting was arranged by Mrs. A. R. Wood, sister of the bride; Mrs. R. B. Crombie and Miss Mary Crouch.

BRIDE IN IVORY VELVET

Entering the church on the arm of her father, by whom she was given in marriage, the bride wore a lovely imported model of ivory chiffon velvet, fashioned with simplicity. The long, semi-fitting skirt terminated in a short train, and over the sleeveless bodice was worn a short jacket of the velvet, made with quilted revers and fastening up the front with three velvet-covered buttons, the long sleeves finishing in points over the wrists. Her graceful silk net veil was confined to the head beneath a coronet of orange blossoms and seed pearls, with clusters of the blossoms over each ear. To complete the bridal attire, she carried a shower of Ophelia roses and white heather.

Attending the bride was Miss Mary Crouch, who wore a smart frock of salmon pink chiffon velvet, with shoulder cape of pansy velvet lined with pink. She wore a small tricorn of pansy felt to match, trimmed with rose veil and silk tassel. She carried an arm bouquet of huge white chrysanthemums.

Supporting the bridegroom was the bride's brother, Mr. Tom Crombie, while Messrs. A. R. Wood of Victoria and Wilson Henderson of Vancouver ushered the guests to the seats.

The new organist of the First United Church, Mr. G. H. Peaker, rendered the wedding marches, and during the signing of the register accompanied Mr. Dudley Wickett, who rendered the vocal solo, "O Perfect Love."

RECEPTION HELD

Following the ceremony at the church a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. Crombie was assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. M. Frew, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. George Russell of Vancouver, aunt of the bridegroom. Mrs. Crombie was handsome in English violet chiffon velvet, with a French model felt hat trimmed with brilliant buckles, and a corsage bouquet of gardenias; Mrs. Frew wore black crepe de Chine trimmed with silver and gold, a black hat and a corsage bouquet of Talisman roses, while Mrs. Russell was gowned in eggshell taffeta, with which she wore a short pale green taffeta jacket, a turban of the eggshell taffeta and a corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses.

During the reception the bridal party stood in a flower-banked alcove in the drawing room. In the dining room, where the supper was served, a three-tier wedding cake centred the table, surmounted with a silver vase holding in place tiny rosebuds, while tall pink lighted tapers in silver candelabra added to the table appointments.

Mr. and Mrs. Tait left on the midnight boat for the mainland, where the honeymoon will be spent, and will later make their home in Vancouver. For traveling the bride wore an imported brown flecked wool tweed suit, trimmed with upstanding collar and cuffs of brown squirrel, and an old rose silk blouse made with mandarin collar and pleated vestees. Her hat was a Glengarry Meadowbrook model, and her other accessories were in brown.

Among the many handsome wedding gifts received was an engraved silver entree dish from the members and staff of Ker-Stephenson Limited, Victoria, of which firm the bride has been a member, and a silver cake plate from the Alpha Chapter of the Delta Omega Sorority, to which she belongs.

The groom is a graduate in agriculture of the University of British Columbia, Vancouver.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were the bridegroom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Russell of Vancouver, Mr. Wilson Henderson of Vancouver and Mr. and Mrs. R. Nisbett of Cassidy.

Merchants, ATTENTION!
During the Next Five Weeks, Store and Window Lighting Must Be Particularly Good
From now until Christmas, people in increasing numbers will be coming to town with certain purchases in mind—purchases quite out of the ordinary, yet not actually part of their "Christmas Shopping." They'll want Christmas cards, party dresses, woolens, raincoats, slippers, books, indoor games, candy, special groceries. If you are wise, you will make it easy for them to shop.
Carefully planned, colorful and WELL LIGHTED windows arrest the eyes of pedestrians, making them STOP and LOOK, and prompting them to INVESTIGATE FURTHER, inside. Here's where you must be careful. Store lighting must be of high intensity, but WITHOUT GLARE. Glare is even worse than too little light. If you want shoppers to STAY in your store, your lighting must be "FRIENDLY."
We will gladly send our representative to inspect your lighting and give you any help you need. No obligation. Phone Light and Power Dept., G 7121.

"THE PRINCE, GOD BLESS HIM"

A crowd, women appropriately predominating, gathered for a glimpse of the infant son of the Duke and Duchess of Kent, when his nurse took him for an airing in his perambulator, in the private gardens of the Kent residence on Belgrave Square, London. If all the world loves a lover, certainly all women love a baby, and when the infant is the first-born of such a popular royal couple, the interest of the British people is specially keen. The baby prince, who was christened yesterday, will be known as Prince Edward of Kent.

BAPTISTS NAME NEW OFFICERS

Rev. F. W. McKinnon Named President; Much Work of Interest Accomplished

The splendid missionary work that is being carried out by the Baptist Church in Bolivia and India was vividly described to delegates at the semi-annual meeting of the Vancouver Island Baptist Association held yesterday at Emmanuel Church, Fernwood Road.

During the special women's hour yesterday afternoon the mission work was described. This hour was under the general convenership of Mrs. H. A. Marrion. The pageant, showing the various phases of the mission work was directed by Mrs. George Bishop. The fifteen Baptist missionaries in Bolivia are stationed at La Paz, Oruro, Cochambamba, Peniel Hall Farm, Quillacolla and Llallugua.

The pageant created much interest and speakers later in the day commented on its excellence. It did much to bring the spirit of the missionary work to the Victoria gathering.

NEW OFFICERS

Rev. F. W. McKinnon of Douglas Street Baptist Church was named president, with Walter Wain of First Baptist Church first vice-president; Mrs. Arthur Pinkerton of Emmanuel Baptist Church, second vice-president, and Frank H. Humphrey of Douglas Street Church, secretary-treasurer.

The new officers were welcomed by Robert McIntosh, retiring president, who presided at the sessions during the day. He also read the welcome to the delegates and traced the activities of the body during the last six months.

Mr. McKinnon announced the next meeting would be held in Nanaimo in about six months.

A detailed account of mission work in India was given by Mrs. O. H. Cogswell. She said that at last the caste system in India was showing signs of breaking up. She said she did not think home rule for India would be successful.

Mrs. F. W. McKinnon compared Sunday schools with missions and made a plea for larger attendance at the Sunday school classes. She urged continued active support for the teachers.

Mrs. L. G. Hill of Chemainus replied to the address of welcome.

CHURCH LOSING GROUND

Professor E. S. Farr gave an interesting talk to the young people at the late afternoon session. Because the church was ignoring the problems and difficulties of young people, it was losing ground, the speaker said.

In many cases young people would much rather attend meetings of radicals and impractical political parties than divine worship, he said.

G. A. A. Hebden, following the fellowship dinner, gave a talk on the work being done by Sunday schools. The Protestant Sunday schools in various parts of the world are to-day being attended by over 33,000,000 children, Mr. Hebden said. These schools must continually prove their merit or their day would be over. These schools, he continued, aimed at building up strong Christian character in order that the world might be a better place in which to live. He asked the support of all parents for Sunday school teachers.

CHURCH BLAMED

The closing address of the day was given by Rev. A. E. M. Danks of Chemainus. He stressed the need of a spiritual fellowship and said man's duty to his fellowmen was "supremely evangelistic and distinctly ethical." He noted there were thousands who blamed the church for all the ills of the world.

"I feel the church has lost her grip because of a tendency to lower her ethical standard," Mr. Danks said. "Whenever the church has been strong it has been when she has called men to her. Perhaps we have not called sufficient attention to the church.

Musical selections were given by the Misses Ethel and Annie Rhodes. A song service was lead by Donald Smith, and the choir, under the baton of W. H. Muncy sang several numbers, with Hester Wilkinson presiding at the organ. Rev. A. S. Imrie, pastor of Emmanuel Church asked the benediction at the close of the day's activities.

INSIST PUPILS SALUTE FLAG

Associated Press

Everett, Wash., Nov. 21.—Refusal of three grade school girls to salute the United States flag in the Silver Lake school brought threats of expulsion to-day from county school authorities.

Ray Treichel, principal of the school, reported to Clifford Carpenter, county school superintendent, that the three girls in the lower grades based their refusal on religious beliefs of their families.

Carpenter said he would confer with the parents before expelling the girls. Their names were withheld.

Workmen employed at piercing pearls in India have inordinately fine complexions despite the insanity surroundings in which they work.

Marketing Act and Reciprocity Pact Are Discussed at Annual Dinner

The Capital City Co-operative Hothouse Tomato Growers' Association held its eighth annual dinner at the Club Continental, Yates Street, Tuesday evening.

A representative number of members and a few invited guests were present.

Many items of interest to the members were discussed, chief among them being the Marketing Act. Many arguments were submitted both for and against the act, but the members decided unanimously that some form of co-operation, either compulsory or otherwise, was absolutely necessary, not only for the association, but for all growers of tomatoes in British Columbia, if the industry were to remain an industry.

The new treaty with the United States was also discussed, but enough was not known of this treaty as yet to be able to form any definite opinion.

T. B. Dempster was elected president for his ninth term, with H. Campbell as vice-president.

B. Parkin again occupies the position of secretary-treasurer for the sixth consecutive term. Mr. Joe, Mr. Wright and Mr. Hutchinson are directos, and Messrs. Emery and Skelton auditors.

JAPAN WOULD TRADE HERE

Investigator Sent From Tokio to Look Into Salt Fish Trade

Trade representatives of Japan, in anticipation of early resumption of the relations which existed before the Bennett tariff rupture, are arriving in Canada to look over the field and make plans for future business between the two countries.

Japan's business interests are awaiting the outcome of negotiations that are expected to ensue leading to the establishment of a new trade agreement with Canada under the new government's policy of freer interchange of trade.

This was indicated by T. Matsuzaki, special representative of the Nippon Suisan Kaisha Ltd. and the Nippon Shokuryokogyo Kaisha Ltd., large fishing interests of Tokio, who is at the Empress Hotel to-day. Mr. Matsuzaki arrived in Victoria yesterday, having crossed from Yokohama to San Francisco.

He stated in an interview that he came to Vancouver Island to investigate the salt fish industry and determine the capacity of the plants on this Coast to supply the eastern market should trade relations be resumed on the old basis.

The concern has handled much of the trade in salt herring and salmon and shipped to China.

More recently efforts have been made to secure markets for British Columbia salt fish in Cuba and Peru.

Will Press For Road Commission

Value of Highways in Tourist Picture Stressed at Nanaimo Meeting

Nanaimo, Nov. 21.—Creation of a road commission will be pressed by the Tourist Trade Development Association as the result of the meeting of the island council of that organization held here yesterday, attended by the mayors of Victoria, Duncan, Nanaimo, Courtenay and Alberni.

Mayor Leeming of Victora presided.

Mayor H. F. Prevost of Duncan, stressing the advantage of placing future road construction on a basis removed from partizan interference, moved that the provincial government be urged to create a non-political road commission.

Mayor C. J. Spratt of Alberni spoke of the good results obtained for the money expended in the improvement of the Island Highway. He, with other mayors, believed that Hon. F. M. MacPherson, minister of public works, should be congratulated on the manner in which the work had been carried out. He pointed out, however, that the amount available was totally inadequate to the requirements of highway modernization on the island.

WORTH OF ROADS

Too much stress could not be placed upon the revenue-producing worth of good roads, said Mayor Leeming, quoting statistics in support of his contention. Mayor Leeming dealt at length with the tourist results attained during the year.

Victoria for many years, he said, had demonstrated its appreciation of the truth that what helped one part of the island aided all communities, by including Vancouver Island as a whole in its publicity. He pointed out that although the increase in tourist business in the Vancouver area was but 4 per cent, that of Vancouver Island was 32 per cent. This, he claimed, was due to the splendid work of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau and the attractions provided by the Tourist Trade Development Association.

TOURIST ACTIVITIES

Giving a comprehensive report of the activties of the Tourist Trade Development Association, T. H. Eslick, secretary, reported that the government's answer to the request of the council that a sum equal to the expenditure on the Fraser River bridge be capitalized for the purpose of reducing ferry fares from the mainland, had been turned down. The government was also non-committal in respect to the council's endeavor to protect Cathedral Grove. The council decided to continue its efforts to achieve these objectives.

The railways will again be urged to institute the cent-a-mile excursions to the British Columbia coast from the prairie provinces and appreciation was expressed of the value of these seasonal rates.

On the motion of Mayor John Barsby of Nanaimo, the feasibility of holding an exhibition of Vancouver Island products will be explored.

On the motion of Mayor Simms of Courtenay it was decided to enlist the various sections of the island in an enlarged folder descriptive of Vancouver Island.

LIBRARY STAFF WORK PRAISED

W. T. Straith Tells Revellers of Efficient Service Rendered

Tribute to the efficiency and economical administration of Miss Margaret Clay, librarian, and her staff in charge of the Victoria Public Library, was paid by W. T. Straith during an address to the Revellers' Club at the dinner meeting in the Cairo Coffee Shop yesterday evening.

The library service was the cheapest of all services paid for out of the taxpayers' dollars, Mr. Straith said. It cost 1.2 per cent of every dollar which was even cheaper than the street lighting service which cost 1.7 per cent.

Mr. Straith spoke of the work of Andrew Carnegie, philanthropist, who founded the Carnegie Corporation whose 100th birthday anniversary is being celebrated next week.

The reference to the local library was introduced at the end of his talk. The Victoria staff consisted of graduates of library schools, and this service was highly specialized work, Mr. Straith said.

Mr. Straith told how Andrew Carnegie went to the United States from Scotland at the age of thirteen and through diligent application to his work rose to fame and fortune. In all he had given $135,000,000 for adult education. $65,000,000 of which was devoted towards the establishment of nearly 3,000 libraries, 1,900 of which were in Canada.

The local library was started in 1862 and there were now 57,000 books on its shelves, he said. Last year there were 371,000 books circulated.

During the business discussion members of the club completed plans for the Christmas party on December 6 in the A.O.F. Hall to raise funds for Christmas hampers.

PIANIST IN FINE RECITAL

Jan Cherniavsky Thrills Musical Arts Audience With Superb Performance

By G. J. D.

For a number of years the names of the Cherniavsky Trio—Leo (violinist), Mischel ('cellist) and Jan (pianist), and their talents and artistry have been well known to the world's chief musical centres. Jan is no stranger to Victoria, and yesterday evening his recital at the Empress Hotel ballroom drew a large audience who gave him a splendid reception and unstinted approbation throughout the evening.

Jan Cherniavsky is a very Titan of the keyboard, and the position he has attained, among present-day pianoforte virtuosi was once more proven justifiable.

STIRS EMOTIONS

His technique is formidable. He has an ardent and urgent impulse, a temperamental personality, an unusual, convincing sincerity, and a rare imaginative sense which he exploits at all times to the utmost degree.

He knows, too, how to make those dramatic moments: the colossal Bach-Busoni "Chaconne," the Scriabine Study No. 12, Op. 8, and the surging, fiery and elastic Chopin "Scherzo" in B flat minor that serve him and his listeners so well, that the emotions are stirred to heights of enthusiasm and delight, and as he proceeded so did the demonstrations of approval.

What a beautiful singing tone and finely expressed was the opening number, the Gluck-Brahms "Gavotte" in its haunting loveliness and inimitable grace, as was there in plaintive Norwegian theme of Greig's "Ballade," brilliantly achieved, and again in the appealing beauty of Chopin's "Nocturne" in D flat, invested with supreme poetic feeling.

"La Chasse" in E (etude 5), Paganini-Liszt, was tremendous piano playing. The three "Preludes," Nos. 3, 23 and 24 of Chopin's 24 preludes, all exquisitely fashioned, had poetic beauty, delicacy and fancy.

How delightful was the pianist's superbly executed curious sense of suspense in No. 23, and the sonorously-tragic capricious No. 24 (the "Blacksmith), perhaps the greatest of all, brought an instant outburst of clamorous applause.

Finely rhythmic and individual was the "Polonaise" in B flat major. The four Chopin studies and the popular "Scherzo" in B flat minor (Chopin), which concluded the programme, were full of national characteristics, tender, yet bold, and brimful of tonality, fantasy and humor. The overwhelming coda in its brilliant interpretation was applauded and Mr. Cherniavsky gave some extra numbers, among which were the charmingly-flowing variations of a Corelli Gavotte and scintillating "Souvenir de Russe."

The many lovers of Chopin's music who were present must especially feel a sense of gratitude to Mr. Cherniavsky for the unusually large number of the Polish composer's works—no less than ten—that suit so well this pianist's musical prodigalities, and all so brilliantly and lustrously interpreted by him. The recital was given under the auspices of the Victoria Musical Art Society.

Hollywood, Calif., Nov. 21.—William Powell, debonair screen star, had the tax blues to-day.

He said he planned to spend six months a year hereafter in England to escape California's levy on incomes.

"Federal taxes were bad enough, but the new income tax in California has broken the proverbial camel's back," declared Powell.

He estimated 75 per cent of his earnings went to the tax collector.

COL. WALKER OF CALGARY HERE

Col. James Walker of Calgary, only surviving officer who participated in the trek of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police to the Canadian west in 1874, is a visitor to Victoria.

He is eighty-eight years of age and came here to enjoy the milder climate of the Coast on medical advice.

Col. Walker served in the second Fenian Raid of 1870. He assisted in organizing the 77th Wentworth Battalion in 1871. He took a cavalry certificate on the organization of the 15th Light Horse Corps, and to-day is an honorary colonel of that force.

It was in 1874 that Col. Walker joined the R.N.W.M.P. His activities with the mounted police terminated in 1881, when he resigned to enter ranching with Senator Cochrane.

In 1916 he went overseas with the 238th Forestry Battalion.

Col. Walker was the first president of the Calgary exhibition, now known as the Stampede, organized fifty years ago.

No More Piles

Get Quick, Pleasant Relief

Probably not one person in ten knows the cause of piles is inside—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

That is the scientific truth about piles and is the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give more than temporary relief—they do not remove the cause.

Your piles can not be relieved until you have corrected the condition which causes them. That is why an internal medicine like HEM-ROID should be used.

HEM-ROID is the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, who early in his professional life made many tests to relieve piles by correcting the cause. His medicine succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, eases the pressure of blood in the veins of the lower bowel and helps to heal and restore the sore, tender parts.

So if you have failed to get the relief you want from your sore, painful piles, and would like to give HEM-ROID a trial, you have our promise to return your money, if just one bottle of this prescription does not give pleasing results. MacFarlane and Vancouver Drug Stores, or any druggist, can supply you with the genuine HEM-ROID.

A.A.U. Delegates Give Serious Attention To Radical Proposals

THE SPORTS MIRROR

MERRILY we roll along-roll along-roll along. That is the battle cry of the Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League. With the season only just started Conny Smythe's boys have forged to the front of the entire league with three wins and a draw in four matches played. In their own Canadian division the Leafs have taken a five-point lead on the second place Montreal Maroons and Montreal Canadiens, although it must be remembered the former have only played one game. The Leafs are just up to their old tricks again. For the last three or four seasons they have gone wild in the early part, but by the time playoff time comes around the Toronto club finds it just as tough as the other teams to win games

* * *

Wonder what Manager Red Dutton and Coach Rosie Helmer of the New York Americans, and Manager Sylvio Mantha of the Canadiens are thinking about, following Toronto's smashing 7 to 2 win over the Flying Frenchmen on Tuesday evening. Last Sunday evening the Canadiens marched into New York and handed the Amerks a 6 to 0 shellacking to completely spoil the home opening for the New York club. In previous games on the road and against what was considered to be stronger opposition the Americans turned in good games. And then the Canadiens go home and are spanked by the Leafs to the tune of five goals. There must be some power in that club of Smythe's.

* * *

In taking over the management of the Americans Dutton is trying to succeed where some mighty good men failed. The Americans have had good managers before. Newsy Lalonde, Shorty Green, Eddie Gerard and Joe Simpson all know their hockey.

"What they didn't know," observes a New York writer, "was how to cope with some of the situations that arose when the players were not on the ice. The only man who came close to being able to do this was Tommy Gorman, who off the record of what he has done in the last couple of years, is the best manager in hockey. Finally the situations became a little too much even for him and he stepped out.

* * *

"Red, more aggressive and forceful in word and action than his predecessors, has a better chance of succeeding than they did. Having played here for some time, he is thoroughly acquainted with the conditions that defeated the others and he does not intend to permit them to defeat him. If he goes down with a crash it will be on the ice, because he already has come to a very clear understanding with the club officials about certain things that he wants done about the organization and environment of the club. Unless these things are accomplished to his satisfaction he will resign his post regardless of where the team happens to be in the race for the Stanley Cup. For him to quit in such circumstances would be a blow from which the club would not recover for a very long while."

* * *

With a view to giving Victoria's rep rugby team practice for the McKechnie Cup game on Boxing Day and to demonstrate the merits of a club team as opposed to an all-star aggregation, Fifth Brigade and Navy spokesmen yesterday came forward with the suggestion the rep team play the Gunners and the sailors respecively following the trial game on November 30.

* * *

It was believed that a social fixture could be made to fit in to the rugby schedule without demoralizing the senior league and the games would doubtless prove of considerable interest to followers here.

* * *

Just to keep those players tentatively picked for the second team active, John Baxter, head of the Fifth Brigade intermediates, is willing to pick a squad from the second division to play the second senior team. And if the referee for that proposed fixture will prevent the senior league halves from playing offside on scrums, he is willing to bet his intermediate reps will win.

* * *

Next to judges in a baby show, rep team selectors probably have to suffer more adverse criticism than any person, with the possible exception of Hitler in Jerusalem.

* * *

Some of that criticism has been roused over the apportionment of places on the proposed trial squads for the McKechnie Cup team. Those unfavorable to the selections as made Tuesday evening are trying to reconcile the reasoning behind the choice which picked ten candidates from the Canadian Scottish club, which rests in the cellar of the league without a victory to its credit, while the Fifth Brigade, undefeated league leaders, have only seven men on the lists. The different clubs, in their respective positions in the league, along with the number of candidates they have on the proposed trial teams follows:

Fifth Brigade (7).
Navy (6).
Bays-Wanderers (5).
Garrison (3).
Canadian Scottish (10).

No Isolation of Canada's Athletes Warns President

W. A. Fry Urges Annual Meeting of Body at Halifax to Be Diplomatic

Halifax, Nov. 21.—"Efforts will have to be made immediately if Canada is to be adequately represented at the Olympic games in Germany next year to raise sufficient money to finance the team," President W. A. Fry told delegates at the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada to-day.

Asking that "the spirit of sportsmanship prevail" in order to dispose of the problems facing the convention as soon as possible he said, "We're working toward having the meeting run so that delegates can leave for their home Saturday morning."

The minutes were adopted without dissent and then President Fry made his annual address.

"Many proposed amendments to the constitution will come before you for consideration at this meeting," he said, "and some proposals are so radical as to seriously affect the vital amateur principles for which the union has stood for sixty years. If we are to continue to legislate for the future general welfare of the youth of Canada, it is imperative we give these proposals our most earnest consideration.

"I particularly urge we make no decision that would mean the isolation of Canada and her athletes from international competition."

RUGBY IMPORTATION

In referring to international relations between the Canadian and United States unions, Fry touched on the importation of rugby players into Canada from the United States. Although it was difficult for a union as large as the American one to keep track of traveling athletes, he said, each had to sign a statement before being issued a traveling permit by the United States.

"If the statement later can be proved to have been dishonest, Daniel Ferris gave me every assurance of the co-operation of the United States in handling the case." Ferris is secretary of the American union and Fry said he had met him last September in New York.

AMATEUR-PRO PROBLEM

An organized campaign to lower the bars between professionals and amateurs loomed as the foremost problem before the delegates.

Most of the ten branches had resolutions before the governing body insisting with varying degrees of strength that to fine a line had been defined between amateurism and professionalism.

Committees on resolutions, constitution, finance and Olympics met yesterday and discussed notices of motion by various branches and allied bodies.

At the same time officials of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, with P. J. Mulqueen, chairman of the Canadian Olympic committee, and J. H. Conn, manager of the 1935 Allan Cup winners, Halifax Wolverines, met behind closed doors to discuss prospects for the Dominion's representation at Berlin in February.

With their first-string forward line and defence gone, the Wolverines looked weak for a championship team, and when the meeting adjourned yesterday evening no decision had been reached regarding an Olympic selection.

Gathering again to-day the officials will decide whether to build up the Wolverine skeleton with players from other Canadian teams or name Port Arthur Bearcats, runners-up for the cup this year, to represent the Dominion overseas. Montreal Royals may come into the picture in a play-off with Bearcats for the honor.

No Decision On Hockey Problem

Police Break Up Wrestling Brawl

Bellingham, Nov. 21. — Police broke up a slugging match between Ted Cox, 250, Lodi, Cal., and Jack Forsgren, 240, Vancouver, B.C., in the mainland of a mat card here yesterday evening after the referee had called their battle a draw and left the ring.

The referee departed when Cox and Forsgren started slugging it out in the aisles after each had scored a fall. It was several minutes before both grapplers could be subdued.

WIN STREAKS ARE AT STAKE

Six of Seven Unbeaten Teams in U.S. Football in Stiff Matches Saturday

New York, Nov. 21.—Six of the seven remaining winning streaks in United States major intercollegiate football ranks will be at stake this Saturday on widely scattered gridirons. The possesor of the seventh, New York University, prudently takes the day off in preparation for a final stand against Fordham on Thanksgiving Day.

Latest reports indicate California's Golden Bears and Texas Christian's Horned Frogs are being exposed to greater risk than any other inhabitants of the gridiron zo . The Bears play at Stanford in the west coast's annual "big game." T.C.U. entertains the Rice Owls, champions of the southwest in 1934 and beaten only by Southern Methodist this season.

Rice, like Stanford, is in a superb spot to knock off one of the nation's unbeaten pacesetters. Texas Christian, like California, has an advantage in the line that may prove decisive, but Rice as a pair of all-American backfield candidates in Bill Wallace and John McCauley, known as the "Touchdown Twins."

In Texas, Southern Methodist comes back home crippled by the loss of Fullback Harry Shuford, to play Baylor's Bears.

Princeton's right to high ranking on the national list will be put to a severe test by another unbeaten and untied aggregation, Dartmouth, in the east's outstanding game.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

Whenever there is an eclipse of the sun, the temperature of the affected area on earth drops slightly due to the fact that during the eclipse the rays of the sun are shut off by the moon. This temperature drop is slight, and is not noticeable to the average person. The earth is protectd by its layer of atmosphere.

The moon does not have this protection, and its surface temperature is greatly affected by the rays of the sun. Normally the surface temperature of the moon is 250 degrees at the hottest point. During the few minutes that the sun is cut off in an eclipse of the moon, however, this temperature may drop to 150 degrees below zero.

In the June 14 eclipse of 1927, Seth B. Nicholson of Mount Wilson Observatory and others measured a drop of 345 degrees. When the moon was exposed to the sun's heat again, the temperature began a swift climb—it increased 345 degrees in less than two hours. These measurements were made on a spot on the moon that has a normal temperature of 160 degrees.

Strange as it seems, water conducts electricity only when there is an ionizing agent in it—such as salt or acid. Pure water is a non-ductor, but a pinch of salt or a little hydrochloric of sulphuric acid added to it allows electricity to pass through it.

Eight consecutive shut-out victories in their 1934 eight-game schedule was the record of Wheeling High School in Oregon—a school with only twenty-nine boys enrolled and seventeen of them out for football. Coach "Buck" Hammer concentrated on line plays, and every touchdown of the season was made on running plays. Half their games the Wheeler team did not even punt during the games. Under high school rules, they played twelve-minute quarters.

To-morrow: The Ghost Fort.

RED STACKS IN CUP WIN

Defeat Kingham-Gillespie and Gain Right to Meet West Saanich in Final

Island Tug Red Stacks, intermediate A basketballers yesterday evening earned the right to meet West Saanich Mercantiles, leaders of the senior B League to decide which squad will oppose the up-island aggregations for possession of the winter knockout cup, when they gained a 34 to 26 victory over Kingham-Gillespie in the semi-final of the series. This was the feature match on the Victoria and District Basketball League's three-game card staged at the High School gym.

Securing a lead early in the game Hoyle-Brown cagers coasted through to a 44 to 20 victory over Lake Hill, in a senior B fixture, while Pantorium girls, leaders of the women's section, defeated Burnettes, 43 to 12.

Roy Taylor, lanky tip-off star for the Red Stacks, gave his team the lead soon after the start of the game when he dropped in four fine tallies in succession. The tussle soon developed into a close one and at the breather the score stood 17 to 14 for Red Stacks. For fifteen minutes of the second half the Island Tug squad held the upper hand but with five minutes to go the coal-and-wood squad rallied but failed to overcome their deficit.

WIN EASILY

The senior B encounter saw both teams fight neck and neck for ten minutes but after that Hoyle-Brown surged ahead to secure a comfortable lead. The score at the half stood 20 to 12 for Hoyle-Brown. The second half was all Hoyle-Brown, who scored almost at will.

Pantorium had little trouble with the Burnettes. The half-time score stood 21 to 10 in their favor. In the last half the cleaners' squad had it all over their opponents and Burnettes were only able to garner two points.

Alan LeMarquand and Bill Naysmith refereed.

BROOKS WILL MEET INDIAN

Baptiste Paul to Oppose Former Local Grappler Saturday Evening

"Rocky" Brooks, former local wrestler, will be back to perform in the local ring again this Saturday evening, when he is scheduled to exchange grips with Baptiste Paul, Victoria Indian, in the semi-spotlight attraction on promoter Fred Richardson's grappling card to be staged in the Tillicum gymnasium.

This will be Brooks's initial appearance before local fans for three years now. He has been making the rounds of the "big time" wrestling back east and has just recently returned to take part in bouts on the Coast.

Paul, who has met with considerable success in Coast cities, as soon as he had heard Brooks was in town asked Richardson to match him with the former bone-bender. The Indian wrestler has been trying for four years now to get a mix with the "strong man."

The bout should prove to be action-filled as both boys are willing to rough it up. They are both much improved in the art of the groan-and-grunt game since they last appeared here.

An eight-round heavyweight main event and a local special will round out the card.

Hudson's Bay Footballers Win Seventh Straight Game

Robinson Nets Four Counters In 8 to 1 Win

Has Great Afternoon As Saanich Club Smothered; Spencers Beat James Bay

NAVY NOSES OUT KRESGES

Hudson's Bay footballers continued their march to the Wednesday League championship yesterday afternoon by smothering the Saanich United eleven 8 to 1 at the Heywood Avenue grounds for their seventh straight victory. The Bays have practically cinched the Hayward Cup with a six-point lead over Spencer's, Navy and Wanderers in a three-way tie for second place.

Spencers, defending champions, handed James Bay Wanderers a 4 to 1 defeat at the Athletic Park, and retained a slim chance of getting home in front. The third match yesterday saw the Navy account for Kresge's, 1 to 0, at Beacon Hill.

HUDSON'S BAY WIN

At Heywood Avenue grounds, Hudson's Bays ran roughshod over the Saanich United squad to ring up their 8 to 1 victory in spite of losing Barnswell, outside left, who was forced from the game when kicked late in the opening half.

Scotty Robinson accounted for four tallies and Tubby Stevens and Jack Okell each scored twice to pile up the departmentals' total. Bud Smith rifled in a shot in the second half to save the suburbanites from a whitewash.

Okell opened the scoring, and Robinson netted the ball for the second tally to give Hudson's Bays a 2 to 0 lead at half time.

Saanich's goal came when Baxter punched clear from Newell and was caught out of position by Smith, who drove home his side's lone counter.

The Bays again took up the attack, and Stevens put in another shot to raise the score to 6 to 1 before Robinson finished off the day with another pair of markers to make the count stand 8 to 1.

P. Saunders refereed.

The teams follow:

Hudson's Bay — Baxter, O'Connell, Wyatt, Williamson, Kennedy, Oakman, Stewart, Robinson, Okell, Stevens and Barnswell.

SPENCERS VICTORS

Gaining an early lead, Spencers accounted for a weakened James Bay aggregation. The departmentals enjoyed a 2 to 1 margin at half-time. From the opening kick-off Spencers put on the pressure and after about twenty minutes' play went into the lead when Bernie Clarke took a pass from Nicol and whipped the ball past Sadler, James Bay goalie.

Continuing their heavy offensive Spencers made it 2 to 0 seven minutes later, Collins going through himself to beat Sadler from near the penalty spot. At this stage the Wanderers forced matters and during a heated attack around Spencer's goal Munroe fouled Speller and a penalty was awarded. Belford scored from the spot to make the count 2 to 1 at the interval.

In the opening stages of the second half the Bays tried hard to get the tying goal, but Munroe and Cann, Spencer's backs, broke up all dangerous rushes. After twenty minutes Clarke gained his second goal to make the count 3 to 1. Spencer's fourth and final goal came as the result of a long shot by Bobby Brown, the ball slipping through Sadler into the net.

D. McMillan refereed.

The teams follow:

Spencers — Stewartson, Munroe, Cann, L. Bradley, Chapman, D. Bradley, Brown, Mail, Clarke, Collins and Nicol.

Wanderers—Saddler, Gelling, White, Thame, Fieldhouse, Roskamp, Ball, Belford, Speller and Bourne.

MARR'S GOAL WINS

After battling through a scoreless seventy-five minutes, Dave Marr, stalwart sailor forward pushed across the lone marker of the match to give the Navy eleven a 1 to 0 victory over Kresges.

Play through the first half of the match was fairly even. Thirty minutes of the second half was gone before Marr garnered the winning tally. Marr met Bennallack's rebound and pushed a sizzler past goalie McMillan from close in. Previous to the goal the Navy team had taken the ball up the field with a fine forward movement.

Red McMillan, smart goalie for Kresges, was responsible for keeping the score down during the next few minutes, as he was kept busy blocking shot after shot.

P. Shrimpton refereed.

Navy—Mundie, Dovey, Kennedy, Watt, Robinson, Hutton, Hibbert, Bennallack, Marr, DeCosta and Walker.

Traps All Alike

Perhaps it is because Mrs. Glenna Collet Vare makes traps appear so simple in golf by avoiding them that trapshooting is second nature to her. The sixtime women's national golf champion is shown shining up her favorite weapon for a shoot for women at the Valley Forge, Pa., Gun Club.

Portland-Calgary Win Hockey Games

Former Turns Back Seattle Sea Hawks 2 to 1 to Tie Vancouver Lions For Lead in Northwest League; Calgary Whips Edmonton 3 to 1 in Overtime

The race for early season leadership of the Northwest Hockey League tightened up to-day as Portland Buckaroos and Vancouver Lions shared top spot in the standings with Calgary Tigers a slim point behind them.

Buckaroos downed Seahawks 2 to 1 at Seattle yesterday evening to move into a tie with the idle Lions, while Tigers took the measure of Edmonton Eskimos at Calgary 3 to 1 in overtime.

Louis Coupez, veteran winger, paced the Bucs to victory as he fired in both Portland goals, the first on an assist from Ralph Blythe early in the second period and the second near the halfway mark in the third on a solo effort.

Art Gagne paved the way for Seattle's lone tally in a Sea Hawk rally late in the final session. He drew the Bucs defence out and slid the disc to Dave Gilhooly, who slapped it past Goalie Andy Aitkenhead.

VETERANS SHINE

A pair of veterans on Tigers' big-league spangled line-up punched home the winning goals in overtime after the Eskimos had tied up the game in third period.

Louis Holmes, Eskimo centre, broke away while Tigers attempted to take advantage of an Edmonton penalty and beat Sam Timmins in the Calgary nets for the first score.

With less than two minutes to go Chris Sorenson batted in Dutch Gainor's rebound to send the game into overtime.

Gainor sent Tigers in front in the first two minutes of the extra session on a solo dash and Tony Savage netted Bob Gilmour's pass six minutes later to make sure of the verdict.

Philadelphia In Hockey Victory

Philadelphia, Nov. 21.—Philadelphia Ramblers took a firmer hold on first place in the Canadian-American Hockey League yesterday evening by defeating Springfield Indians 4 to 1, before 4,000 spectators.

The victory was the third in four starts for the Ramblers, and the second in four days over Springfield.

Grandpa of Cagers

When Dr. James A. Naismith invented basketball at Springfield, Mass., Y.M.C.A. College in 1891, little did he realize that some day he would be teaching the sport to a granddaughter. But here is Dr. Naismith, professor of physical education at the University of Kansas, celebrating his seventy-fourth birthday by giving fourteen-month-old Fransan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Naismith Jr., of Dallas, pointers on the pastime at Lawrence, Kan.

HONOR MEMORY OF SPORTSMAN

The memory of Bobby Gaul, dynamic little Varsity track man and rugby star, who died recently after a long battle with ill-health, will be perpetuated by a memorial cup, donations for which are now being received in Vancouver.

The likable little athlete, who typified the ideals of sportsmanship as few can, appeared in Victoria on many occasions. He won fast friendships among his rugby and track opponents.

The trophy will be awarded annually along the same lines as the Aldous Memorial Cup here. It will go to the varsity athlete who best typifies the ideals for which Bobby was known.

Archie McKinnon, coach of the Flying Y track team, and members of the rugby fraternity to-day stated their groups wished to make some contribution to the fund.

Will Hold Anglers' Jamboree To-night

The second annual monster jamboree of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association will be held this evening in the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium in the form of a Klondike night.

Plans for all the events are now complete, with a crowd far surpassing that of last year is expected.

Many novelties will make up the evening's programme. The various games of the gay nineties, such as roulette, house-housie, chuck-a-luck and horse racing will be held. Vaudeville acts will be staged. Dancing will take up the latter part of the evening.

Victoria West Cubs To Meet Esquimalt

Victoria West Cubs will be at home to Esquimalt Meat Market in a Juvenile Soccer League game at Central Park Saturday morning at 10.30 o'clock. These teams have only met once before this season, and a close 1 to 0 decision went to the Cubs. They are, however, anxious to continue their winning streak from last Saturday, and as both teams have strengthened since their last meeting, a real close game should be witnessed.

The Cubs will probably make one or two changes from the lineup which beat Hill's Corner last week, and the following players are asked to be at the grounds not later than 10.15: Prendergast, Page, Grogan, Minnis, Muir, Rowell, Davies, Brown, Renfrew, Lee, Whittle, Newmarch, Murdoch, Booth, Smart and Kennedy.

WALLACE DROPS NOD TO GARCIA

Canadian Welterweight Champion Beaten in Sizzling Twelve-round Bout at Vancouver; Filipino Slugger Puts Canadian Down in Fourth For One-count

Vancouver, Nov. 21.—Ceferno Garcia, Los Angeles, ranked as the leading contender for the world welterweight title, defeated Gordon Wallace, Vancouver, Canadian welterweight champion, at the Vancouver arena here yesterday evening in their twelve-round bout. Wallace's title was not at stake. Part of the enthusiastic crowd of 3,000 booed lustily at the decision.

The votes of the two judges were split, with the referee and one judge casting their ballot for Garcia and the other voting for a draw.

Garcia, his scheduled bout with champion Barney Ross on November 29, probably an added incentive, connected repeatedly with heavy blows from both hands, but was hard pressed at all times by his rangy opponent. Wallace took a one-count in the fourth when Garcia tore in and smashed him to his knees, but was up in an instant. Wallace's best round was the seventh when he unleashed a two-fisted attack and, with arms flailing, lashed out a Garcia with stinging blows. Garcia took the last two rounds by his aggressiveness.

WALLACE CUT

Wallace received a cut over his left eye in the sixth when Garcia connected with a terrific overhand-right. Wallace slipped several times in the resin.

Garcia tossed the first hard blow of the fight in the opening round when he sent Wallace back on his heels with a terrific left-hand smash to the body. Gordon recovered to pepper Garcia's head with short rights before the bell.

From then on it was a clever boxer with a sting in both hands against an almost equally clever, but harder-hitting puncher.

Three times, in the sixth, seventh and tenth, Wallace drove right-hand smashes to the head that momentarily halted the rugged Filipino, but Garcia forged back each time pumping both hands to the body with an occasional sizzling right or left hook to the jaw.

Garcia landed both hands to the head early in the eighth, staggered Wallace with a terrific right to the jaw and slugged both hands to the body as Wallace stabbed him with left jabs and hooked rights to the face.

They slashed away at each other with both hands to the head in the ninth, slugging after the bell until the referee pulled them apart.

Garcia blinked as he took a right hook to the head in the tenth, then sailed in with both hands after the referee ignored his protest on a low blow. They linked their arms and stood toe to toe in a corner slugging after the bell again.

The husky Los Angeles battler waded into Wallace in the eleventh with left uppercuts and chopping rights, snapping the Canadian's head back. But Gordon came back with a courageous two-fisted attack to the head.

They milled around the ropes in the twelfth, hooking either hand to the head or body. Just before the final bell Garcia snapped a vicious right to the chin that rocked his opponent.

In Eleventh Week of Yawning

In the eleventh week of the strange malady which has baffled the medical profession, Mrs. P. E. Wakelin, pictured above in the act of yawning, spent her seventy-fourth day of continual yawning in the Jubilee Hospital to-day.

Since her return to the institution she has undergone several X-ray examinations, though she has not as yet been subjected to any specific treatment.

Yesterday Mr. Wakelin reported the postman brought forty letters. This is about the average number of letters that the family has been receiving for the last month. Most of them contain patent cures and advice for the sufferer.

On stepping on the scales a few days ago Mrs. Wakelin registered 119 pounds, which shows a drop of twenty-three pounds from her normal weight of 142 pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Wakelin have been residents of Victoria for the last seventeen years. Both born in Ontario, and were married in Alberta. They have three children; Una who is sixteen, Howard, Fourteen, and Gerald, twelve.

Daughter Seeks Share in Home

Children of F. M. Rattenbury By First and Second Wives in Contest

Four lawyers argued most of this morning before Mr. Justice Robertson of the Supreme Court over the disposition of the large Rattenbury house on Beach Drive, Oak Bay.

The lawyers were:

H. A. Maclean, K.C., counsel for the Royal Trust Company, executors of the estate of F. M. Rattenbury, who was murdered in England last spring; Cleave White, counsel for the guardian of the two infant children, boys fourteen and nine years of age, now in England, who are exclusive heirs to the estate; H. G. Heisterman, counsel for the estate of Mrs. Rattenbury, and W. H. Langley, counsel for Mrs. Eric Burton of Victoria, who is Mr. Rattenbury's daughter by his first wife.

Mrs. Burton is fighting for an interest in the estate of her father, which was willed to the children of the second wife. Her brother, Francis Burgoyne Rattenbury, formerly of Victoria and now of North Vancouver, has been carrying on a similar fight before the courts in Vancouver. The interest in both cases centres around the disposition of the Victoria house.

Mr. Maclean brought to-day's application, which was by way of originating summons to determine the right of the Royal Trust to sell the Rattenbury property. He explained that under the will of Mr. Rattenbury, probated in England and resealed here on July 10, 1935, the Royal Trust was appointed executors with power to sell and convert into money all the estate and hold it to pay his wife an income, and after her to pass the estate on to the two young sons.

Maclean produced records to show that in 1929 Mr. Rattenbury had conveyed this Victoria property to his second wife for a cash payment. Then Mrs. Rattenbury had entered into an agreement with the St. George and the Dragon Company to lease the property for ninety-nine years, with the option of purchase, the income from which arrangement was to be divided equally between Mr. and Mrs. Rattenbury. The company had planned a beach hotel, but it fell through and the property was quit-claimed to the Royal Trust. When the Royal Trust made a deal to sell it to the Simpson private school, Mr Langley had moved to block it by filing a caveat on the grounds that she had the right to an interest in her father's estate and that her father's estate still had an interest in the property.

"The wife had entered into an agreement with the St. George and the Dragon and I contend that the Royal Trust Company now has the power to carry out that and sell," Mr. Maclean said. "My submission is that the Royal Trust has full power over the property for the benefit of the children and as trustee has power to rescind and sell."

Mr. Langley asserted a move was made to rush through without waiting for the probate. He argued that the trust company had no right to sell the property at the price. He said it was up to the court to decide what interest Mr. Rattenbury's estate had in the Oak Bay property and said that that interest should figure in the assets of his estate.

Mr. Heistermann and Mr. White supported the main argument of Mr. Maclean.

"I do not see where Mrs. Burton has any standing whatever," Mr. White said. "Mr. Rattenbury had parted with the party and there was, therefore, no retention of trust."

The judge reserved his decision.

FIRE LOSSES IN CITY TAKE JUMP

Fire losses in Victoria have shown a marked increase this year over last year, according to figures released this morning by Fire Chief Alex Munroe.

JINX STRIKES MOVIE PARTY

Camera Broken, Car in Crash, and Sound Track Defects Found Yesterday

Troubles rarely come singly, the staff and cast of the Central Films production, "Stop, Look and Love," which is being made here at present, discovered yesterday.

The first trouble struck the company at Butchart's Gardens, where forty-five Victoria extras were on the lawn, for the purpose of staging a garden party.

When the big camera, which weighs the best part of 500 pounds, was being unloaded from a truck, it was dropped on the ground. Considerable damage to the more delicate parts of its mechanisms was caused.

The jinx struck the second time on the road out to the gardens, when one member of the production staff was involved in a minor car crash, in which nobody was injured.

SOUND TRACK DEFECTS

The third and biggest trouble which beset the company yesterday took the form of a telegram from Hollywood, where the film is being processed.

The message said that the visual film was of exceptionally high quality, but that at least half of the sound track so far recorded was no good at all.

This had been caused through the use of a new type of equipment which had not previously been tried out by the recording men, and through the fact that the company has not plant here in which it can process and try out its sound track as production goes along.

Because of this, half the scenes shot so far will have to be completely retaken, and the party, which had expected to get through its work by the end of this week, will remain here for another ten days or two weeks.

The prospect which the company is facing with the least pleasure is that of retaking scenes in the open by night. One night this week, work at the Craigflower School on the Island Highway continued until 2 a.m., and it is possible that all this work will have to be done over again.

Capitalized at $10,000, a new West Coast resort was granted incorporation as a company by the Registrar of Companies this week. It is known as the Seaside Farm Hotel Limited, the address being "West Coast Road," near Jordan River.

The Red Wing Oil Company Limited, $50,000, Vancouver.

Maple Crescent Ranch Limited, 25,000 share, no par value, Vancouver.

Granville South Real Estate Company Limited, $50,000, Vancouver.

Superior Shingles Limited, $10,000, New Westminster.

Acme Shingle Company Limited, $10,000, Vancouver.

One extra-provincial company took out papers, Industrial Acceptance Corporation Limited, 180,000 shares of no par value, with offices in Montreal and Vancouver.

Five timber licenses standing in the name of the Fire Creek Timber Company and one in the name of Kathleen W. Brehm, were reinstated by the provincial government on payment of back fees amounting in all to over $5,000.

Tobacco Heads Here To-day

Earle Spafford and C. H. Sclater of Imperial Company Checking Trade

Earle Spafford, vice-president and director of the Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada, Montreal, and C. H. Sclater, president of Tuckett's Tobacco Ltd., Hamilton, arrived in Victoria to-day on a tour of inspection of the western interests of the big tobacco manufacturing concern.

They are at the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Spafford is not giving interviews this trip, but he did make the observation that business generally was appeared to be much better and that the people of the west were optimistic over trade developments expected from the agreement reached between Canada and the United States.

After completing their business here, Messrs. Spafford and Sclater will return direct to the east.

New Group In Rotary Club

Royal and Ancient Order of Double-headers Makes Debut at Stork-decorated Table at To-day's Luncheon

A new organization inside the walls of the Rotary Club of Victoria made its first public appearance at the club's luncheon at the Empress Hotel to-day. Its title—the Royal and Ancient Order of Double-headers.

The executive of the group is made up of fathers of twins; the general membership is open to Rotarians who are themselves twin brothers.

Officers of the new group are as follows: Supreme custodian of the safety pins, Frank I. Doherty; grand keeper of the stork, B. R. Ciceri, and board of directors, Art Dawe. Mr. Dawe qualified for his position on the executive last week.

The general membership is: Rev. W. J. Sipprell, D.D.; Frank M. Shandley, George Plowman and Burt Murphy.

Five Plants To Reduce Herring

Government Issues Licenses to West Coast Operators For Season

Licenses were issued by the provincial government to-day to the five West Coast of Vancouver Island fish reduction plants, who will be permitted to reduce herring this winter.

They are: Armac Packers Ltd., Toquart; B.C. Packers Ltd., Kildonan and Northern Chief Packers Ltd., Ecoole, all in Barclay Sound; and Nootka Packing and Fishing Co Ltd., at Nootka, and Nelson Bros. Fisheries Ltd. at Ceepeecee in Esperanza Inlet.

Under an agreement reached with Hon. George S. Pearson, Commissioner of Fisheries, these plants will limit the amount of herring reduced to 25,000 tons in the interests of conservation. This quota is split, 12,500 tons to the Barclay Sound plants and 12,500 tons to the others.

Reduction of herring was not permitted last year, but on the West Coast the pack of salt herring this season was much below the quota, due to marketing conditions, so it was decided to allow the reduction of the limited amount, the department said.

GAS PRICES TO JUMP FRIDAY

An increase of one and a half cents a gallon in retail gasoline prices will take effect to-morrow, bringing the price to thirty cents a gallon. This announcement was made to-day by all leading distributors with the exception of one. The increase is reported to be due to the advance in crude oil prices and will be both wholesale and retail.

NIGHT SCHOOL ENROLMENT UP

Classes Gaining Popularity As Courses Continue, Leader Reports

A steady increase in the number of people availing themselves of facilities for specialized study at the Victoria Night School was reported to-day by George Breadner, in charge of that department of the city's school work.

Whereas the couses opened with a registration between 600 and 700, the total enrolment at mid-term was close to 1,000, he stated.

Increased interest in the Spanish course would probably put the total above the last mentioned figure, he said. Advantags of that course were outlined by Mr. Breadner to-day as he reviewed trade possibilities with Latin America countries.

GOOD LECTURES

He was particularly struck by the excellent lectures being given in music and music appreciation. The pottery class, in which artistic expression and design work is given wide play, was also making headway, and greater improvemnt could be expected from the elementary architectural and machine drawing group as students realized the fine grounding afforded in these particular classes, he said.

Elementary art and design, providing the groundwork for more advanced study, would most probably draw larger groups in the near future, Mr. Breadner stated.

Resignation of J. Hamilton Stubbs as police magistrate in Kaslo City was accepted by the provincial government to-day. The appointment of William J. Clement of Jellicoe, as a justice of the peace was made.

The total bank clearing in the city for the week ended November 21 was $1,807,892, according to a statement issued by the Victoria Clearing House to-day. The figures for the same period last year was $1,343,509.

C. E. Webb, district chief engineer, Dominion Hydrometric Bureau, will address the Victoria branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada on Monday evening next at 8 o'clock in the Y.W.C.A. on "The Columbia River Basin and Grand Coulee Project." The address will be illustrated by lantern slides and anyone interested is invited to attend.

SHIP APPEAL TO BE HEARD

Exchequer Court to Hear Appeal of Ss. Princess Alice in Ottawa December 9

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Nov. 21.—Appeal of the Ss. Princess Alice, owned by the Canadian Pacific Railway, versus the Corporation of West Vancouver, owners of the "West Vancouver Ferry No. 5," arising out of a collision last February between the boats in the First Narrows, Vancouver, will be heard here December 9 before the Exchequer Court of Canada. Both parties have agreed to the date.

The accident occurred in a fog. On action instituted in British Columbia by the Corporation of West Vancouver, Mr. Justice Martin, local judge of the Admiralty at Vancouver, found the collision was caused primarily by joint negligence of both ships and ruled total damages occasioned be borne equally by the parties. From this decision owners of the Ss. Princess Alice are appealing.

LECTURES ON SPECTROSCOPY

Dr. Andrew McKellar Speaks at Astronomical Society Meeting

The uses and advantages of the spectroscope or spectrograph in determining position, velocity and physical characteristics of stars whose properties are ordinarily unable to be studied, were described by Dr. Andrew McKellar of the Dominion Astronomical Observatory at the November meeting of the Royal Canadian Astronomical Society in the Y.W.C.A. yesterday evening.

The difference between the spectroscope and the spectrograph was very little, the lecturer explained, the former being used to view the spectrum while the latter is adapted for taking pictures. By the use of the spectroscope only the light from a body was required to determine facts about its source.

The speaker stated that as far as man knew, without the aid of the spectroscope, starlight was a beam of homogeneous light whose physical nature could not be determined by direct observation. In illustrating the nature of light waves and their characteristics Dr. McKellar compared them to waves on the ocean, crests and troughs combining to make a complete wave. He classed light waves as being disturbances in an electric and magnetic field.

COLORS

Dr. McKellar explained that the different colors which are known to nature are different in this way because their wave lengths differ in size. The "Rainbow" as we know it ranges from the violet to the red, the former color being due to short waves and the latter to long waves, all those colors in between violet and red going in ascending order according to wave-length.

Beyond the violet were the ultra-violet with short wave lengths, and still further in that direction the exrays about which little is known at present except their great powers of penetration.

Away in the other direction were the infra-red rays with very long wave lengths. Or even longer wave length were the heat waves and radio waves.

In explaining how the spectroscope came into use, Mr. McKellar outlined its history, beginning with Newton's experiment with the spectra and that scientist's great contribution to the study of light. By his experiment Newton inferred that all light was composed of different colors.

By means of diagrams the speaker showed the construction of the spectroscope. In principle and construction he demonstrated that it was a simple piece of apparatus composed of a small slit in a piece of opaque material through which the light was directed to fall on a lens to regulate it in a parellel beam. After passing through the lens the light fell on a prism usually made of quartz.

The speaker stated the first two factors in the construction of the spectroscope collectively were termed the "collimator."

Dr. McKellar explained that all light in the stratosphere traveled with the same speed, but in glass or air light traveled with slightly different velocity. Slides depicting the practical use of the spectroscope in relation to the telescope were shown.

LIGHT FROM A STAR

In the case of receiving the light from a star, the speaker stated that instead of a prism in the spectroscope a grating was used. He explained how the radial velocities of the heavenly bodies could be determined by studying the nature of the light received from them. By plotting their various positions during a certain period of time their paths through the ether could be found.

The speaker stated that the velocity of a star changed, as did its direction, and that variable radical velocity was due to a binary star, that is, two stars very close together.

Lantern slides were shown to illustrate the various types of dark lines in the many different kinds of spectra. These lines the speaker explained were valuable in determining the nature of the elements in the atmosphere of the stars.

Robert Peters gave a brief sketch of the discoveries of Halley and referred to the work of Isaac Newton in this connection.

Lieut.-Commander H. B. Tingly, president of the local association, presided at the meeting.

"Shipmates Forever" Will Open Friday

The famous screen lovers who made their first hit in "42nd Street," following it with "Gold Diggers of 1933," "Flirtation Walk" and other screen successes, appear in their most pretentious picture in "Shipmates Forever," a thrilling drama of midshipman life at the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Dick sings a number of catchy songs which fall naturally into the plot, he being a crooner at a New York park casino before becoming a naval cadet. Miss Keeler, who plays the part of an orphaned daughter of a naval officer, compelled to earn her living dancing in a night club, gives an exhibition of fancy tap dancing with the famous Meglin Kiddies.

Hepburn Stars At Playhouse

For the first time in her meteoric screen career Katharine Hepburn is said to be cast in a role which definitely brings out every side of her vibrant personality.

The star's current characterization in "Break of Hearts," now at the Playhouse Theatre, combines the light comedy highlights of "Morning Glory" with the human qualities of "Little Women" and the tenderness of "The Litle Minister." And it presents Miss Hepburn also in modern, fashionable gowns, designed by Bernard Newman, RKO Radio's internationally-known stylist.

The part which brings out the "Complete Hepburn" is that of a struggling young composer who becomes a dominant force in shaping the career of a musical genius when love comes to them.

Also being shown as the second feature on this programme is "Elinor Norton," a Fox production starring Claire Trevor.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Where To Go To-night

Capitol — "Broadway Melody of 1936," starring Jack Benny.

JACK BENNY AT ORPHEUM

Ralph Morgan, who may currently be seen at the Little Orpheum Theatre as a member of the all-star cast of Reliance's "Transatlantic Merry-Go-Round," released through United Artists, with Jack Benny, Nancy Carroll, Gene Raymond, Sydney Howard, Great Britain's favorite comedian, Mitzi Green, Sid Silvers, Frank Parker, the Boswell Sisters and others, is a rich man's son by birth, a lawyer by training and an actor by choice. Like his brother Frank, Ralph has practically deserted the stage to concentrate on screen work.

Guy Kibbee at The Columbia

"While the Patient Slept," First National's latest murder mystery unusual in that it is packed with drama, the second to be produced under the insignia of the Clue Club, opens at the Columbia Theatre to-day.

The picture is based on the popular novel by Mignon G. Eberhart, and is humor and rollicking laughter as well as thrills, suspense and creepy situations that make the scalp tingle.

Aline MacMahon has the stellar role as the nurse in a rambling, ghostly, suburban mansion whose wealthy owner is supposed to be dying. Guy Kibbee portrays a love-lorn small town detective who is trying to solve the killing of the rich man's eldest son, and at the same time making blundering love to the nurse.

Wall St. Rebounds Under Stimulus of Heavy Buying Wave

Associated Press

New York, Nov. 21.—The stock market rebounded to-day under stimulus of heavy buying in the rails, mines and specialties.

While many recent leaders were not buoyant, the majority displayed rallying tendencies. There were numerous gains of 1 to 3 or more points.

The close was firm. Transfers approximated 3,300,000 shares.

Although activity was not up to Wednesday's decline, market analysts were cheered by the reversal of sentiment. The weakness of some foreign gold currencies, in sympathy with the falling French franc, was not so disturbing as expected. Wheat and cotton moved up briskly.

National Lead voted an extra dividend of $1 and International Harvester doubled its 15-cent quarterly rate.

Shares of Homestake Mining spurted about 12 points and Budd Mfg. got up more than 8. Other gainers included Santa Fe, N.Y. Central, Northern Pacific, International Harvester, Case, McIntyre Porcupine and U.S. Smelting.

MINE ISSUES WORK HIGHER

Canadian Press

Toronto, Nov. 21.—Another day of advancing prices on good volume gave the mining section of the Toronto Exchange a more confident appearance than it presented in the early part of the week. A jump of two points for McIntyre on heavy volume cheered the gold group. The high-priced issues as well as a group of the secondary golds moved forward. Base metal and silver stocks also edged forward on smaller volume.

Teck Hughes and Hollinger worked higher by a few cents. Lake Shore gained ½ on light turnover, and Pioneer sold ten cents higher.

Secondary group leaders on the up side were Central Patricia, Beattie, Buffalo-Ankerite, McWatters and San Antonio, and these boarded gains ranging from five to fifteen cents. Prospectors Airways pushed up about thirty cents on moderate volume, and prices were firm to strong for Sylvanite, Siscoe, Macassa, Little Long Lac and Cariboo. God's Lake was offered in considerable volume, but it held the recession down to a few cents. Pickle Crow weakened about five cents.

Noranda advanced a point to 44. The cheaper issues trailed along, Sherritt selling up to 87, Falconbridge to $5.80, Waite-Amulet to 76 and Ventures to $1.39, all showing substantial gains.

In the oils Texas-Canadian was the feature at $1.40 up 5 cents.

Activity ruled in the food group with better prices ruling for Canada Bread, Blue Ribbon preferred, Laura Secord, the Loblaw issues and Lake of the Woods. Dominion Stores was heavy and Consolidated Bakeries sold lower.

Trade in the banks was quiet with prices holding except for a loss of 3 for Commerce.

INTERNATIONAL MILLING REPORT

Toronto, Nov. 21 (Canadian Press).—The annual report of International Milling Company for the fiscal year ended August 31, shows net income of $1,296,472, compared with $1,444,254 the previous year. Income was equivalent, the report issued to-day said, to $28.81 a share on the new cumulative redeemable sinking fund preferred stock. Common dividend was $500,000. Working capital was placed at $8,750,503.

Associated Press

Winnipeg, Nov. 21.—In the liveliest session of the week, wheat prices advanced on the Winnipeg grain exchange to-day. Responsible to broad gains in outside markets and fair-sized exports sales of Canadian wheat.

Values closed 1⅞ to 1⅝ cents higher, November at 87⅛, December 86⅝, May 90¾ and July 91 cents. Last-minute profit-taking pared the day's extreme gains of more than two cents a bushel.

Foreign sales of Canada's chief commodity to-day were estimated at 750,000 bushels. United States millers were good buyers of low-grade wheat.

Expected strength at Liverpool sent futures to a good start, the late-session confirmation of the export sales giving prices a further filip near the close. Early scattered selling attributed to the Canadian wheat board was absorbed without difficulty.

Liverpool, influenced by improved demand for Canadian and Australian wheat, closed 1⅝ to 1⅛d higher. Chicago and Minneapolis also were strong, up more than two cents a bushel, while Buenos Aires at noon was ⅝ to ¾ cent advanced.

A reflection of the export activity, all grades of wheat were in demand in the cash grains section. Spreads advanced fractionally. Good buying featured coarse grains trading, all futures in that market moving upward briskly.

WHEAT PRICES DOWN

Chicago, Nov. 21 (Associated Press)—Stimulated by upward swings of foreign markets and by improved milling demand here for red winter wheat, the Chicago Wheat Market jumped more than 2 cents late today.

Fears of crop damage from threatened excessively high temperatures in Argentina did much to promote increased speculative buying as the day approached an end. Milling purchases of red winter wheat in Kansas City as well as in Chicago were reported.

Wheat closed strong 1½ to 2⅜ above yesterday's finish, December 99¼ to 99⅜, corn ½ off to ¼ up, December 60⅜ to 60¾, oats unchanged to ¼ higher, and provisions at a rise of 10 to 20 cents.

City Hall Plans In Vancouver

Council Calls For Tenders For Building on Strathcona Park Site

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Nov. 21.—The city council yesterday authorized F. L. Townley, architect, to call for tenders for construction of the proposed new city hall on the Strathcona Park site.

The architect expects to have his plans completed next week, following which he will invite tenders on two bases.

Contractors will be asked to bid on the basis of obtaining their entire payment in cash, and also on the basis of their cost, including $200,000 in "baby" bonds.

The cost of the building will be around $800,000, including furnishings.

Several subscribers to the baby bonds have withheld final action pending the result of a legal attack on the validity of the bond issue, but Mayor G. G. McGeer said these subscriptions were now practically assured as the provincial government has given the city assurance any question of the bonds' legality will be settled by the Legislature next year.

He said the work would be financed almost wholly with British capital and that gold, silver and platinum would be sought. Emperor Haile Selassie was described as owning 25 per cent of the territory to be exploited and Chertok said he did not fear its invasion by Italian forces.

Calgary Mayor Is Re-elected

A. Davison Wins; Three of New Council Members Are Social Creditors

Calgary, Nov. 21.—Mayor Andrew Davison yesterday was re-elected to his fourth term as chief magistrate of Calgary, gaining election on the third count, which eliminated W. H. Herbert, his Social Credit opponent.

Mayor since 1929, Mr. Davison, an independent candidate, was returned to office for another two-year term in a four-cornered election.

The final count gave Mayor Davison 14,390 votes and Mr. Herbert 11,539 after Alderman Fred J. White, Labor, and Fred Peat, Independent, had been eliminated on previous counts.

A record number of voters trouped to the polls to cast 29,094 ballots. The quota, necessary under the proportional representation system used in Calgary civic elections, was set at 13,567, but Mayor Davison failed to reach that number before all opponents but one had been eliminated.

ALDERMEN ELECTED

In the first bid of the new Social Credit Party for civic honors here, three of its aldermanic candidates were elected.

At 10 o'clock this forenoon the complete aldermanic slate was announced, with the completion of the proportional representation count. It showed elected:

Social Credit Party—J. W. Gillman, Mrs. Rose Wilkinson, the lone woman candidate for aldermanic honors, and James Gourley.

Civic Government Association—R. H. Weir, A. J. Macmillan and Cameron Sinclair (all re-elected).

Labor—Alderman W. G. Southern.

There were seventeen candidates for the seven vacancies on the board of aldermen. Four of the seven Social Credit candidates were defeated and only one of the party's four public school board nominees, Mrs. D. A. Anderson, was elected.

E. J. Chambers and J. S. McMurchy, C.G.A., and Miss Amelia Turner, Labor, were elected to the school board.

Chinese Plan To Work Oil Fields

First Development Scheme Calls For Outlay of $3,430,000

Canadian Press

Nanking, China, Nov. 21. — The Chinese Government is planning to spend $11,500,000 Mexican (approximately $3,430,000 in Canadian funds) on a scheme to exploit the great oil fields in Szechuan and Shensi provinces in an effort to reduce the huge imports of gasoline and oils.

According to a rough estimate by the Peiping geographical survey, China has a total mineral oil deposit of 3,700,000,000 barrels, about 7 per cent of the total world deposit.

China's oil veins have their sources in the northern section of Singiang and run through the central section of the province into the adjoining areas of Kansu, thence to Shensi. These veins underlie the Tailing Mountains and enter Szechuan and part of Hunan province.

Exploitation of oil wells was started in China as far back as 1907, but the Chinese do not use modern production methods and transportation in most cases is impossible.

Search For Two Prospectors

Canadian Press

Sudbury, Ont., Nov. 21.—A five-inch blanket of snow, which fell during the night, to-day complicated the work of search parties combing the bush seventeen miles south of here for two elderly prospectors missing since Monday.

The searchers established headquarters at Charles Atkins's camp in Tilton township, where the missing men were last seen.

Philippe Pilon, sixty-six, and Paul Mathieu, sixty-nine, for whom the search began yesterday when Atkins reported their absence, set out to investigate a nickel deposit, but the direction they took is not known. They had only two sandwiches and no axe.

The Untamed

Tarzan deluged the cannibals with the second cauldron of boiling water. There was no need for a third to send them shrieking in every direction to their huts. By this time the ape-man had recovered his weapons.

The girl had freed the young Englishman, and with the remaining apes, they retreated slowly toward the gates, the aviator arming himself with a discarded spear. Nwambo was unable to rally his warriors, so that rescued and rescuers could pass.

They left the village, into the jungle's blackness, without hindrance. The ape-man strode in silence beside Zu-tag. Following the other apes came the girl and a now thoroughly astonished and mystified young Englishman.

In all his life Tarzan had been obliged to acknowledge but few obligations. But to-night the greatest of all obligations had been placed upon him. Tarzan shook his head and growled, for his life had been saved by a girl—his hated enemy!

The Gumps

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—In all love affairs that poor and much beleaguered brute, the male of the species, is supposed to be the villain, and I figure that it is time that he was given a break.

Sometimes, of course, he is a cad who makes love to a girl and wins her heart without any intention of leading her to the altar, but just as often in these modern times the woman is the aggresser. She marks some man for her own and she practically drives him into matrimony.

Take my own case. I have my life planned and I do not intend to marry for ten years at least, because I want to be free to follow my ambitions, travel, etc., but although I am no heart-smasher, not even a ladies' man, I am pursued by girls who make love to me and write me love letters and are so determined to marry me, whether or no, that I am almost afraid to speak to a female under eighty. And I am no exception to the rule. Other young men have the same unpleasant experience. What's a man to do in such a case? No decent man wants to be thought of as a male flirt.

S. G.

Answer—About all the modern young man can do is to get accustomed to being courted. Being made love to is not an unpleasant experience when you are used to it. In fact, it has been the chief diversion and excitement of women for ages.

But, of course, you have to get acclimated to a hot spot, and it is easy to see that a man might not enjoy being told how handsome he is, nor what lovely eyes he has, nor that he is the ideal some girl has been seeking for years and years, and years, and that the moment she saw him she knew that she had met her predestined mate. It would give him the jitters.

It is also easy to understand why cold shivers of apprehension would run up and down a man's spine at a girl's open pursuit of him, for well he knows he is damned if he does and damned if he doesn't get caught. In the one case he will be coerced into marriage, and in the other case he probably will be sued for damage to the affections of the young woman.

It is likewise easy to understand why men, who have always been the hunters in the love chase, should resent having the tables turned upon them and being forced to become the hunted.

Nor is it difficult to understand why men who have always had the privilege of popping the question are embarrassed when girls ask for their hearts and hands in marriage. They have not yet learned the technique of saying "no" gracefully, and selling the rejected suitors the idea of being little brothers to them.

But times have changed. The courting that women used to do under cover, they now do openly. They no longer wear themselves out trying to inveigle a man who hangs back, up to the proposing point. They do it themselves. And so it is up to men to meet this frankness with frankness and to refuse to let themselves be shanghaied into marriages for which they have no appetites.

Instead of being dismayed at the love tactics of the modern girl, men should be filled with hope and courage, provided, like you, they wish to maintain their bachelor freedom. For never were they so safe as now, because they can see the dangers that beset them, whereas before they were in the dark as to a lady's intentions.

The old-fashioned girl played coy. The more she was set on having a man, the less she appeared to desire him. She talked about platonic friendship instead of love. She was always reforming a man's soul, or being the inspiration of his career, and she apparently took so little interest in marriage that a man felt that he was safe with her and he never suspected that she had any designs on him until he had stumbled into her trap.

But the modern girl who telephones and hounds a man into making dates with her, who writes him three letters to his postcard and who openly makes love to him, simply ballyhoos her intentions and gives him a chance to make his getaway while the going is good.

Taking all things into consideration I think the new regime is an improvement on the old. It gives both sides a fairer deal. Every girl has a right to pick out her own husband and get him is she can, and every man has a right to stay single if he so desires.

• • • •

DEAR MISS DIX—My mother will not let me use cosmetics; but there are only three other girls in my class who do not use them and they don't care what they look like and are not liked by either boys or girls. Don't you think my mother should let me use rouge and lipstick?

THIRTEEN-YEAR-OLD.

Answer—Your mother is right in thinking it exceedingly bad taste for a thirteen-year-old girl to daub herself up with paint and powder. That is what we old ones use when we are trying to look young, and it is a pity that those who still have fresh young skins can't realize how blest they are and not spoil them imitating age.

Uncle Wiggily's Turn to Laugh

By HOWARD R. GARIS

One day, when Uncle Wiggily was all alone in his Hollow Stump Bungalow, the old rabbit gentleman thought it would be a good time for him to take a bath. His wife and Nurse Jane had gone to the movies, the rabbit boys and girls were at school and Mr. Longears didn't feel like going adventuring.

"I'll just take a bath," he said to himself. "It's the best chance I've ever had. I'm all alone here."

Hopping up the stairs to the bath room, Uncle Wiggily thought of how much trouble he often had if he wanted to take a bath when there was some one at home in the bungalow. No sooner would he get in the bath room than his wife would call him to do something, or Nurse Jane would want to get in to scrub the floor or some of the children rabbits would be asking their father to help them with their school home work. Often he was more than an hour getting his bath.

"But it won't take me long to-day," thought Uncle Wiggily as he began filling the tub with water, looking to make sure he had soap and plenty of towels. "I'll soon be nice and clean. I can even leave the door of the bath room open, for somebody might ring the bell and if the door is open I can hear them." Then Uncle Wiggily had another thought. "If some one rings the bell while I'm in the water I can jump out, put on my bath robe and go down to see who it is," he decided.

SOAP ESCAPES

So he began to take his bath. He soaped himself well and sozzled on the water and he was all through except washing his back, which was hard to reach, when, all of a sudden, the soap slipped from his paw over the edge of the tub to the floor.

"Whoa, there, soaple! Back up! Come here!" called the rabbit gentleman to the slippery cake skidding over the floor. But the soap would not come back, so Uncle Wiggily had to get out of the tub to pick it up. By accident he stepped on the wet cake of soap and, all of a quickness, Mr. Longears did some skating. The slippery soap was like a skate and the bunny uncle slid all around the bath tub before he caught hold of the towel rack and stopped himself.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed the rabbit. "That was funny! Ha! Ha!"

Having soiled his feet by getting out of the tub on the cake of soap Mr. Longears got back in the tub again and while he was there the Fox popped in the window. The Bad Chap, passing the bungalow, had heard Uncle Wiggily splashing in the water of the tub.

"Ah ha" snickered the Fox to himself. "This will be a fine chance to catch him at his bath." So the Fox climbed up a dried honeysuckle vine outside the bath room window and got in just as Uncle Wiggily was laughing at the funny way he skated on the cake of wet soap.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed the Bad Chap. "This is the time I have you. Now you can't get away. You haven't any clothes on and you don't dare run out of the house. I have you. Ha! Ha! Ha! Hear me laugh."

"Yes, I hear you laugh," sadly said Uncle Wiggily sitting in the tub. "It looks as if you had me sure enough." Just then, seeing the Fox coming toward him, Mr. Longears wet the cake of soap and put it outside the tub on the floor. Then, all of a quickness, the Fox stepped on it and away he slid as if he had on one roller skate.

Faster and faster the Fox slid on the slippery soap until he slid to the open bath room door and then he slid all the way down stairs, bumpity, umpity ump!

Out on the hard sidewalk slid the Fox on the soap and he was so bruised, bumped and bimped that away he limped and didn't catch the bunny after all. Then it was Uncle Wiggily's turn to laugh, and he did. "Ha! Ha! Ha!" He finished his bath and started out adventuring. I'll tell you about it in the next story. It will be Uncle Wiggily and the frozen fish. But don't please, let the vinegar put salt in the pepper hash.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1935

After the early morning adverse planetary aspects rule, according to astrology. It is especially wise to avoid trouble over insincere love affairs.

Women to-day may be aggressive and inclined to exact what they believe to be their rights. Diplomacy will be necessary in dealing with those who have power.

It is not a fortunate rule for women who desire political appointments or positions of responsibility. Contests between leaders of opposite sex may be numerous in the business world.

This is read as an auspicious sway for actors and actresses. New stars will begin to shine brightly this season.

Industrial troubles are forecast in certain parts of the United States, and in the coming winter serious crises will arise.

Agitation over the various sophistries accepted by the people will be widespread and propaganda against the United States government may have serious results.

Many persons will be susceptible to suggestion at this time, when the contagion of thought may be more than ever apparent in groups that listen to whatever is offered from platform or pulpit.

The aspects of Mars continue to presage a climax of the world's unrest. Bloodshed is to arouse great international anxieties.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of many pleasant experiences, among them association with persons of prominence. For the young, love affairs may loom on the horizon.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly clever, endowed with brains and ability of a high order. Subjects of this sign usually have charm of personality and win devoted friends.

George Eliot (Mary Ann Evans), novelist, was born on this day, 1819. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Justin McCarthy, author, 1830; Howard Brockway, composer, 1870, and Dugald Stewart, Scottish philosopher, 1753.

The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the tables, the tide rises or falls continuously during three of the usual tidal periods.

Arctic Natives Are Becoming Civilized

Missionaries and Mail Order Catalogues Help in This Work, Men of Cutter Northaldn Report on Return to Seattle After Northern Patrol

Seattle, Nov. 21.—Missionaries and mail order catalogues are civilizing even the most isolated Arctic Ocean and Bering Sea natives out of all semblance to their traditional selves, coastguardsmen of the cutter Northland said here to-day.

The big motorship arrived late yesterday after a 15,000-mile six-month-and-ten-day patrol of the far northern waters.

Gambell, St. Lawrence Island, home of a vanished, ancient and little-known race, now populated by a few hundred latter-day natives, has but one or two igloo-puks (big igloos) of boards and bones and hides, roofed with walrus skins. And by next summer, they, too, will be replaced by knock-down shanties ordered by mail.

The missionaries have induced the far northern clans to bury their dead below ground, and with religious services, but the graves still are surrounded by fences of walrus bones to ward off the evil spirits.

"And I sat in a house in Barrow and had Scotch and ice water served by a graduate of the University of California," said one boyish ensign. "She was a sweet little thing. They tell down here that when she and her sister were in school, their mink coats were the envy of every co-ed. Well, they tell up north that when the girls got home, they cut those marvelous coats into native parkas."

The Northland brought nine destitute white men "off the beach" at Nome. They had gone north expecting work—with about 500 others—and were left stranded until Uncle Sam provided them with a free ride home.

The cutter, manned by 109 officers and men, acted as mail boat between isolated ports; carried medical and dental aid to native villagers; transported an Alaska University ethnological expedition to and from excavation work on St. Lawrence Island.

She acted as a floating court, with Capt. W. K. Scammell as deputy U.S. Commissioner, holding preliminary hearings binding over prisoners in serious cases, sentencing some in misdemeanor convictions, and empowered to perform marriages. No natives asked the latter service this season.

PRESENT PLAN TO STRIKERS

But Ferryboat Men of Puget Sound Have Reached No Decision Yet Regarding It

Seattle, Nov. 21. — Puget Sound ferryboat operators and their striking employees held grimly to their positions to-day, with no indication of an immediate break in the ferryboat strike which has crippled passenger and freight service.

Members of the Masters, Mates and Pilots' Association and the Ferry Boatmen's Union conferred yesterday on the proposal of the Washington Ship Owners' Association that they return to work pending settlement of a disputed arbitration award.

The unions gave no intimation that they intended to agree to the plan. Union spokesmen said the plan was not definitely considered.

Capt. F. E. Lovejoy, president of the Ship Owners' Association, expressed the hope the unions would meet the offer.

County Commissioners Jack Taylor and Louis Nash announced they had obtained the release of the ferry Washington, owned by the county, but leased to Capt. J. L. Anderson of the Kitsap County Navigation Company, which recently sold out to the Black Ball Lines.

If the unions will furnish a crew, the commissioners said, and if the Black Ball Line will permit the use of its pier at Fauntleroy, the Washington will be put into service between that point and Vashon, and the run may be extended to Harper.

The Ferry Boatmen's Union continued permission for the ferry Quilleyute to operate on the Edmunds-Ludlow route until repairs to the cripple ferry Ballard of the Ballard-Ludlow Line have been finished.

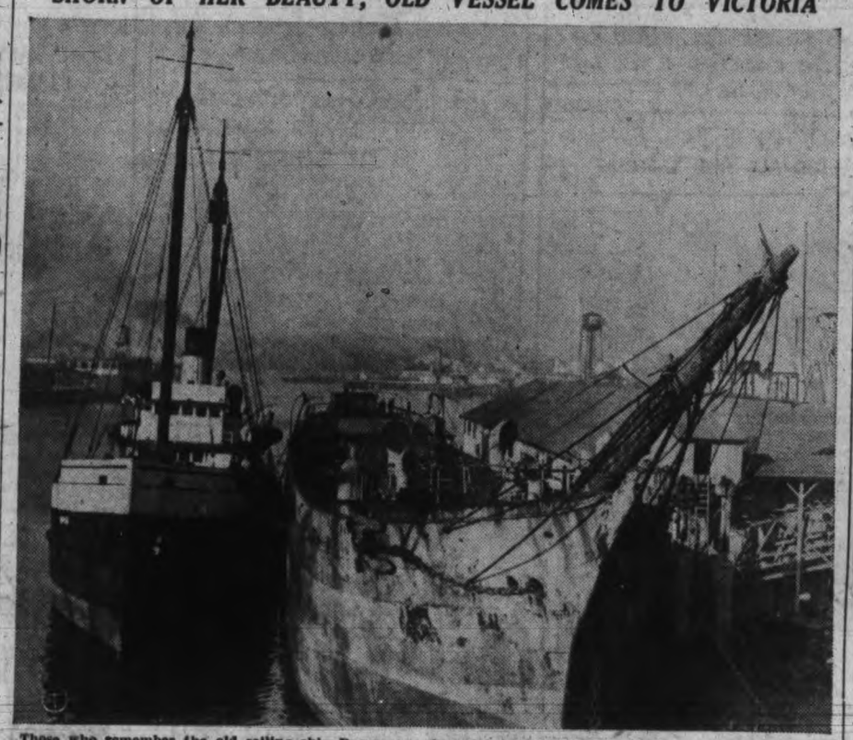
SHORN OF HER BEAUTY, OLD VESSEL COMES TO VICTORIA



Those who remember the old sailing ship Dunsyre as she rode at anchor in the Royal Roads a quarter of a century ago—a picture of grace and beauty—would hardly have recognised her in the big hulk that was towed into the harbor Tuesday evening by the Ss. Anyox. The old ship will be converted here into a giant barge for the carriage of sawdust between Northwest ports by the Island Tug and Barge Company.

B. T. Chappell Is Back From North

Vancouver, Nov. 21.—After making an inspection of the line between Smithers and Prince Rupert, the area which suffered during the storm earlier in the month, B. T. Chappell, general superintendent for the Canadian National Railways in British Columbia, returned here from Prince Rupert aboard the Ss. Prince George a few days ago.

Traffic, both passengers and freight, is now moving freely through the territory, Mr. Chappell stated. Great credit is due the railway forces in that area for getting the line open and the traffic moving in such good time, Mr. Chappell says. The weather conditions under which the work of repair was accomplished was most severe.

Old-timers along the banks of the Skeena cannot recall any storm approaching the recent one in severity, Mr. Chappell reported.

Members of Crew Of Vessel Fight

New York, Nov. 21.—A religious dispute between Mohammedans and Brahmans, members of the crew of the British freighter City of Dunkirk ended yesterday evening in a pitched battle below decks.

The ship carried a crew of seventy, of which fifty-three were Malayans and seventeen British. During the crossing the Mohammedan and Brahman followers among the Malays split into factions.

The fight got beyond the ship's officers and British sailors. After hoses were turned on the Malayans with no effect, police were called.

Four Mohammedans, listed by the captain as ringleaders, were arrested for disorderly conduct.

H.M.C.S. Skeena Now In Drydock

For annual overhaul, H.M.C.S. Skeena, flagship at the Esquimalt Naval Station, is in the Dominion government drydock at Esquimalt. Work is being done by Yarrow's Limited and the destroyer will be floated out to-morrow to return to her deck across the harbor.

H.M.C.S. Vancouver came off the slipway at the V.M.D. plant in the Inner Harbor early this week after annual overhaul. Both ships will remain in the harbor until they start their yearly training cruise to southern waters just after New Year.

This week-end the oil tanker Albertolite is due at Esquimalt for overhaul. She is now coming up the Coast from California ports.
